Computer Blows Race

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

So much for technology.

The Swiftsure and Juan de Fuca race committee went completely computerized this year only to find the machine spilled out the wrong winner.

Late Sunday the computer had Outrageous, a 50-foot sloop belonging to Ted Burns of the Bremerton, Wash., Yacht Club taking the Swiftsure Trophy as over-all winner among Internatiomal Offshore Rule boats racing in the 136.2-mile classic.

A recheck today, however, revealed that although Outrageous wins the Ocean Cement Trophy for first boat in division 1 to cross the finish line near the Ogden Point breakwater at 10:05 a.m. Sunday, the big winner is Bill Buchan's Sachem of Seattle's Corinthian Yacht Club.

Buchan, a Swiftsure veteran, crossed the finish line at 2:01 p.m. Sunday. Sachem is one of 18 three-quarter tonners who will be competing in the world championships that begin at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club this week.

The first boat to complete the race to the Swiftsure Bank and back was Fritz Johnson's 73-foot sloop, Windward Passage, of the New York Yacht Club. She completed the race at 8:16 a.m., winning the City of Victoria Trophy for first boat to finish.

The first boat to round the Swiftsure mark was Drifter, a 69-foot sloop out of the Lahaina Yacht Club, raced by Ron Hart and Dick Warren. She rounded at 10:49 p.m. Saturday, followed by Windward Passage six minutes later and by Doug Fryer's 67-foot sloop Merlin of the Seattle Yacht Club at 11:19 p.m.

Late Sunday afternoon brisk westerlies were bringing the remainder of the 373 Swiftsure and Juan de Fuca boats home in style, spinnakers, bloopers and every sail they could raise flying.

Strong gusts caused many a near knockdown as the boats raced through the tidal waters of Race Passage and the gale-force winds took their toll in both races. A host of boats withdrew either because of broken gear, sea sickness or other causes. One of the first boats to be knocked out of the race was Scott Schock's Red Onion, who lost her mast shortly after her start.

Other early casualties were G. Middleton's Shaman of CYC, who broke her rudder, and Tillicum and Tumbo, belonging to H.J. Ricketts of CYC and Larry Straith of the

NATO Eying Red Threat

Times News Services

WASHINGTON — A diplomatic extravaganza opens in Washington this week as Western leaders, including Prime Minister Trudeau, ponder ways to counter growing Warsaw Pact armies — now about twice as strong conventionally as the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Fourteen heads of government — with French President Valery Giscard D'Estaing as usual the only notable absentee — will meet at the U.S. state department for secret sessions.

President Carter will address the opening session of the Tuesday. The delegations then will hold two days of closed-door meetings to plan long-range strategy for dealing with what has been a concerted buildup of Soviet-led Warsaw Pact forces.

Wrapped in this debate is bound to be a discussion of the controversial neutron weapon which some NATO members want and others don't.

Canada has not yet said whether this country opposes producing and deploying the weapon.

However, Trudeau indicated at the special UN session on disarmament last week the aim of nuclear weapons control should be to smother development of devices such as the neutron bomb in the laboratory.

The meeting will consider 117 major recommendations put together over the last eight months by 10 special committees.

Officials said that one of the most important elements in the report, involves a 15-year program for an integrated allied air defence.

Other aspects of the report cover ways to improve the readiness of NATO forces, to speed the rate at which reinforcements can be deployed, and to enhance maritime capabilities, communications and logistic co-ordination.

. In manpower and conventional weaponry in Central Europe, the most critical area, the NATO forces are arrayed against armies whose superiority has been steadily growing.

Among other things, NATO intelligence and U.S. estimates show that:

—More than 580,000 combat-ready troops, about 310,000 from the Soviet Union, are deployed in East Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary, compared with 283,000 for NATO.

—There are 15,500 tanks on the Warsaw Pact side against 6,000 for NATO.

—The Warsaw Pact has 4,000 tactical combat aircraft compared with about 2,000 for NATO.

—In the event of an attack, the Warsaw Pact could deploy 180 divisions as reinforcements. NATO countries could supply 71.

The conversion of the Soviet Union's tactical air force from a largely defensive to a largely offensive ground attack role also has raised con-

AIR CANADA PLAYS FAIRY GODFATHER

FLIN FLON, Man. (TNS) — A Scottish bride's wedding day tears turned to laughter when an Air Canada captain decided to play fairy godfather.

It happened on Saturday when the unidentified pilot noticed Fiona Johnston, 19, still in her wedding dress, sobbing in the observation lounge of Glasgow airport. She was saying goodbye to her husband of a few hours, 23-year-old David, who works in Flin Flon and was due back at work today. Unfortunately, Fiona's immigration paperwork had not been completed.

The pilot delayed the flight while strings were pulled to see if Fiona could be cleared for a flying honeymoon visit to Canada with her new hubby. She could be.

Later, passengers aboard the flight passed the hat and collected $200 in various currencies as a wedding present for Fiona and David.

'Tots Held In Slavery'

LONDON (Reuter) — Small children in Morocco are working up to 72 hours a week for little or no pay to make carpets for export to Canada and other foreign markets, the Anti-Slavery Society said in a report published today.

A mission was sent to Morocco by the London-based human rights organization to investigate reports that girls as young as seven were being used as cheap labor to fuel Morocco's booming exports of carpets to Canada, the United States, West Germany, the Netherlands, Sweden, France, and Belgium.

The mission visited 79 private factories in 17 Moroccan cities and towns.

Its report said conditions in private factories and workshops were generally poor and many of the children looked under-nourished and overworked. By contrast, conditions in the government-owned workshops were much better, it said.

The report said most of the child workers under 12 in the private sector were classed as apprentices and paid little or nothing for long hours of labor. Those who were paid received enough money to buy a loaf of bread evey day.

The organization called on the Moroccan government to extend its control over private factories to bring them up to at least the better standards existing in state factories.

The Anti-Slavery Society, founded in 1839, works for the eradication of slavery, servile forced labor and other violations of human rights. It has consultative status with the UN Economic and Social Council.

35 Flags Ripped In 'Ritual'

Nearly all the flags decorating the B.C. Steamships terminal were ripped down Saturday night in what seems to be a Switftsure ritual.

Thirty-five Canadian ensigns, provincial and Cook bicentennial flags disappeared from brackets holding them.

"It happened Saturday night, the same as last year. Does that tell you anything?" said a disgusted steamship spokesman.

Meanwhile at the legislature, someone made off with the largest flag in the city, the Canadian flag from the top of the main flagpole.

SPORTS

Al Unser was surprised Sunday, but it was a happy and rewarding surprise. Despite scorching heat and challenges from talented rivals, Unser was surprised by the ease in which he became only the fifth driver to win the famed Indianapolis 500 automobile race for a third time.

Seattle SuperSonics say they don't need individual heroes and they went a long way toward proving their theory Sunday. The Sonics turned in an unselfish team effort to nip Washington Bullets in a 93-92 thriller and take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven National Basketball Association final.

Victoria gymnasts Philip Delesalle and Owen Walstrom have been selected to Canada's team for the Commonwelath Games this summer in Edmonton following the national championships at Ottawa, where Delesalle turned in a world-class performance to win his third Canadian senior men's crown. Another Victorian, Tracy Beer, captured the junior women's title.

It's two-for-two for Victoria driver Roy Haslam in his new super-stock racing car. Haslam roared to main-event victories in the first two races of the Drivers' Challenge Series, winning Saturday at Western Speedway and Sunday at Langley.

Political Games Played With Zaire Death Toll

By DAVID B. OTTAWAY
The Washington Post

KINSHASA, Zaire — As the confusion surrounding the rebel seizure of Kolwezi slowly subsides, the picture of what really happened in that now half-empty mining town, who executed whom and how many died is becoming clearer.

It appears that fewer were killed than previous reports indicated.

(All but about 150 of the French troops who parachuted into Shaba province to drive Katangan rebels from Kolwezi and rescue foreigners have left the battle-scarred copper-mining town and turned the area over to the Zaire army).

The initial avalanche of conflicting reports from Europeans fleeing, French and Belgian military sources, and Zairian authorities made accurate reporting extremely difficult.

In retrospect, it seems some of the initial reports from French and Zairian sources of whites being massacred were deliberately exaggerated to gain quick Western public sympathy for the French-Belgian rescue mission of more than 2,000 Europeans in the town.

The first impression was of a systematic killing of whites by the rebels, most of the deaths occurring at three or four mass execution sites.

It now appears most of the killing was random and arbitrary, that the rebels and Zairian army soldiers participated at different times in helping and executing Europeans and that the majority of the victims, white and black, died singly or in small groups.

Fench military sources in Kolwezi say captured rebel documents included no orders to kill Europeans, though it is possible the licence to do so came when it was learned French Legionnaires were on their way to Kolwezi.

As for the total number of Europeans and Zairians who perished during the six-day siege, the hunt for bodies now being conducted by the International Committee of the Red Cross and Belgian and French medical teams so far does not bear out the initial high estimates.

The Red Cross figures for bodies picked up in and around the town between Tuesday and Friday are 56 Zairian troops, 111 black African civilians, and 95 Europeans, making a total of 262 confirmed deaths.

A seven-man Belgian medical team counted only 64 Europeans, of which it was able to identify 23. A French consular officer who visited Kolwezi Thursday gave the figure of 123 confirmed white deaths.

All three figures are significantly below the official French government estimate of 200 put out at midweek.

While the truth remains hazy, there are several clear examples of exaggerated and probably deliberately planted figures given out either by Zairian or French authorities to create the impression the rebels carried out mass executions of Europeans.

The first reports of any such killings came from the Zairian government on May 19, the day French landed on Kolwezi, saying the bodies of

Hisses, Boos By Pensioners

VANCOUVER (CP) — Liberal leader Gordon Gibson and Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm were hissed and booed Sunday by senior citizens at a meeting sponsored by Pensioners For Action.

Adding to the chagrin of the 250 elderly listeners was the absence of NDP leader Dave Barrett. An hour before the start of the meeting he announced he couldn't make it and was replaced by Rosemary Brown, NDP human resources critic.

"I came expecting to hear Dave Barrett — most people did and they're annoyed that he's not here," said one woman.

Equally vying for the audience's attention was a trip for two to Reno and lottery tickets which were raffled off at the end of the meeting.

"To tell you the truth, half these people would never come if we didn't entice them with door prizes," said one organizer.

The meeting was billed as the first in what is expected to be a series of discussions on topics of interest to the elderly and Canadians in general.

Riot Charges

Seven persons were charged in Victoria provincial court today in connection with the April 15 riot at the Jordan River prison camp.

Two, 25-year-old Paul Ruben Cardiff and 20-year-old William Patrick Puglis, were charged with arson, one was charged with possession of a pick-axe, and the rest were charged with mischief causing wilful damage.

Three were remanded by Judge Blake Allan to next Monday, the others to next Tuesday, for election of trial.

DETECTIVE HIT IN BANK BATTLE

WEST VANCOUVER (CP) — A police detective shot in a gunfight with a bank robber said Sunday the shootout began after a customer threw an ashtray at the robber.

Det. Laurence Mortimer, 56, was hit three times in the Saturday gun battle—once on each hand and once through the neck.

Mortimer said he had been showing the bank's assistant manager a picture of a fraud suspect when he saw the robber, who was carrying a long-barrelled .22-calibre pistol.

"I was going to wait until he got out and tackle him outside," said Mortimer.

Then a 65-year-old customer standing at the counter threw the ashtray, said Mortimer, hitting the gunman on the temple.

"He swung around with the gun," Mortimer said. "I thought he was going to blow the guy away."

Then the shooting started.

B.C.: Crime Capital of Canada

VANCOUVER (CP) — Crime in Canada follows an almost unchanging pattern — the farther west one goes, the higher the crime rate, according to a statistical profile of national criminal activity prepared by a Simon Fraser University criminologist.

Dr. Ezzat A. Fattah, 48, chairman of the university's 15-member criminology faculty, says British Columbia has consistently led the nation in every kind of criminal activity, with the exception of robbery, since Statistics Canada began compiling comprehensive crime data in 1962.

"We found this was a very consistent pattern with one exception, the category of robbery, where some years Quebec holds the lead and in other years B.C.," Egyptian-born Fattah said. "Otherwise the trend is consistent,"

He compiled rates — based on reported and recorded crimes, rather than court convictions — for every type of crime on a basic unit of 100,000 population in three broad categories: crimes of violence; property offences and miscellaneous crimes such as prostitution, gambling, drug offences, possession of stolen property and weapons; and non-violent sex offences.

Attorney-General Garde Gardom today pointed out Fattah based his figures on three-year-old statistics. He said the crime rate has leveled off in recent years.

The formation of the Co-ordinated Law Enforcement Unit and an over-all increase in the number of police have been important factors in the tapering off, he said.

Gardom is looking to the health ministry's compulsory heroin treatment program to have a significant impact on drug related crimes, estimated to be responsible for 60 per cent of all crime.

The attorney-general continues to press Ottawa for more help controlling the heroin problem. Gardon says B.C. suffers 60 per cent of the heroin problem in Canada but received only a fraction of the federal heroin control aid.

Statistics Canada stopped preparing separate figures for the top 12 metropolitan areas in 1972, but at that time, Fattah says, Vancouver was clearly the most crime-ridden city in the country and he has no reason to believe that situation has changed.

Edmonton and Calgary were ranked second and third in the study, followed by Windsor, Ont. — across the border from Detroit, Mich., which leads the United States in murders.

Among his other findings:

—the national crime rate has gone up 152 per cent in the 14-year period. Crimes of violence have increased 194.7 per cent and property offences have gone up 140.8 per cent.

—violent crimes constitute only eight per cent of Canada's criminal activity. Sixty-seven per cent are property offences and the remainder are victimless crimes like prostitution and drug possession.

—drug crimes have rocketed from 770 offences in 1962 to 50,081 in 1975. In B.C., the number shot from 188 in 1962 to 9,790 in 1975.

—the incidence rate of violent crime nationally was 554.3 per 100,000 in 1975, but in B.C., the rate was 804.3. Comparable rates for property crimes were 4,494.7 and 6,725.2 respectively.

—the national murder rate in 1975 was 3.1 per 100,000 compared with 3.8 in B.C. The murder rate increased 121 per cent nationally in the 14-year period.

Bear Grabs Alaska Hwy. Cyclist

WHITEHORSE, Yukon — A cyclist was clawed, bitten and dragged by a black bear into bushes along the Alaska Highway south of here Saturday before a motorist killed the animal with a rifle.

Wolf Seidler, 39, of Edmonton, and his wife Ulla were the first ones on the scene and were credited for helping save the man's life.

After they approached the bear another motorist came up and shot the animal.

The victim, Giorgio Mazza, 37, of Lecco, Italy, is in serious condition in Fort Nelson hospital, "but it appears he will recover," Constable Lou Bates of Fort Nelson said Sunday night.

"He's pretty well chewed up," Constable Bates said of Mazza. "He received 150 stitches to his head and another 150 to the back area and arms. But no bones were broken.

Mazza had flown from Italy to Whitehorse a few weeks ago and was planning to cycle from there to Dawson Creek. The year before, he had cycled from Anchorage, Alaska, to Whitehorse.

"He told me he was cycling down the road and suddenly came upon this bear on the shoulder," said Constable Bates. "He wasn't too familiar with wild animals but had seen another bear earlier on his trip and it had run from the road into the bushes.

"When he stopped his bike, the bear started towards him so he threw some luggage down on the road to distract him. It mulled over this a bit and he in the meantime threw his bike down and started running.

"The bear chased him and grabbed him by the back of the neck before dragging him 30 metres into the bushes, and through a two-strand barbed wire fence to boot," the constable said. "Bears are fast, for a short distance—they can even outrun a horse."

"Believe me, it was a nightmare," Seidler said in an interview Sunday night.

Anti-Cook Rally Mapped

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — Indian representatives meet here this week to plan and set a date for a major demonstration in Victoria against the provincial government's Captain James Cook bicentenary celebrations.

Jerry Jack, a member of the Mowachaht band which has declared Cook's landing place off limits to visitors, said in an interview Saturday that the date for the protest will be set by the West Coast District Council of Chiefs.

Jack said the rally will be held in the latter part of July or early August.

He said the demonstration would involve the 13-band, 4,000-member Nootka nation as well as representatives from many of the other 190 Indian band councils in the province.

Jack said that meanwhile signs were being posted at Friendly Cove on Vancouver Island during the weekend, warning the property is private and no trespassing will be allowed.

PUBLIC ENLISTED IN VANDAL FIGHT

Saanich police will be inviting the public to participate in a crackdown on what is fast becoming the municipality's number one crime problem — vandalism.

Sgt. Fred Wooster, head of the police force's community service division, says pamphlets are being prepared which will be sent to homeowners asking for their help and co-operation in reducing the problem.

The pamphlets should be ready in about a month.

Circulation will be concentrated in the vicinity of schools which have been hard hit by vandals in recent years, particularly during the summer months.

Wooster says the pamphlets will stress the fact persons phoning in complaints are not required to give their names or address.

"We'd prefer persons leave their names but that isn't the point," he says. "All we're after is a way of stopping the vandalism."

Cubans Slain

MOGADISHU (Reuter) — Somali guerrillas said today almost 300 Cuban and Ethiopian troops were killed in ambushes in the Ogaden region of southeast Ethiopia last week.

Injunction Denied

VANCOUVER (CP) — A group of Canadian fishermen have withdrawn their application in the Federal Court of Canada for an injunction to force the federal fisheries department to re-open the Swiftsure Banks to Canadian fishermen.

Judge Alex Cattanach on Friday told Paul Fraser, lawyer for the Pacific Trollers Association, that although the loss of fishing time may mean fishermen have suffered damages, there is no proof of direct loss to the association on whose behalf the application was filed.

"I have to have evidence that there is irrevocable loss," he said, "but I don't see any damage, and those are conditions for granting an injunction."

Terrorists Nabbed

BONN (AP) — Four of West Germany's most wanted terrorist suspects have been captured in Yugoslavia.

A justice ministry spokesman said the four were among 20 alleged hard-core terrorists sought in a series of slayings last year, including the kidnap-killing of industrialist Hanns-Martin Schleyer.

West German police have offered a reward of $25,000 each for the capture of suspects in the slayings of Schleyer, Chief Prosecutor Siegfried Buback and banker Juergen Ponto.

Schleyer was kidnapped in Cologne last Sept. 5 and found dead in the trunk of a car in France Oct. 19.

Buback, 57, his driver and a police aide were killed April 7, 1977, when an assailant riding a motorcycle fired at their car with a sub-machine-gun.

SUIT LAUNCHED TO STOP SUITS

VANCOUVER (CP) — The ministry of consumer and corporate affairs has asked the British Columbia Supreme Court to stop a Vancouver woman from launching lawsuits.

Valerie Doreen Morrow has started 11 separate court proceedings, most for $1 million, against General Motors of Canada, the B.C. Rentalsman and the Bank of Montreal, among others.

The ministry asked the court for a declaration that Morrow has persistently started "vexatious legal proceedings in the courts of British Columbia." It also asked for an order to stop her from starting any further legal actions in a B.C. court without leave of the court.

SWISS VETO CAR BAN

GENEVA (CP) — Swiss voters turned a deaf ear Sunday to an appeal from environmentalists that they leave their cars in the garage 12 Sundays a year.

In a national referendum, they rejected a proposed constitutional amendment that would have banned the use of cars, private planes, motorboats and motorcycles on the second Sunday of every month.

The amendment was put on the ballot by nine ecology-minded students who collected the signatures of more than 100,000 registered voters.

The students believed they had a chance to see their fellow Swiss "take a small step toward a better environment and way of life" because of the good grace with which most of them accepted three car-free Sundays during an Arab oil embargo some years ago.

Accident Investigation

The findings of last week's inquest into the plane crash that killed 43 people at Cranbrook were enough to give practically anyone a twinge of nervousness at the thought of flying anywhere in Canada except to and from the major airports. The story that emerged was that of so much bungling, so much sloppiness, that it seemed almost inevitable that the end would be disaster.

The inquest jury made a number of carefully considered recommendations which, if implemented, should reduce the chances of a similar accident occurring in future. Some changes have already been made, including such simple matters as the institution of a rule that pilots should forewarn radio operators of their arrival time five minutes before they actually land.

But the recommendation that is perhaps the most important in the long run was the one by the coroner that a separate independent governmental body should be set up to investigate airplane crashes in Canada rather than having a branch of the Ministry of Transport do it.

The ministry is the traditional body for those investigations in Canada. In many cases it performs the only investigation without even a public inquest being held. It doubtless has many skilled experts who do a first-rate job at the complicated detective work which is often needed to figure out just what went wrong.

But, as the results of the Cranbrook inquest showed, the MoT is often in a position of conflict of interest in its investigations. One of the agencies most heavily criticized by the inquest jury was the MoT itself. It is not reasonable to expect that sort of criticism to be made in public by the MoT against itself.

Yet thorough public investigations of all factors involved in an air crash must be the best way to ensure that high safety standards are maintained. The public would not allow unsafe conditions to persist, once it was informed of them.

The only way we can be sure that will happen is to set up a body independent of the MoT for the purpose of accident investigation. The federal government should act as quickly as possible to set up such a body.

Random Sampling

The rumor persists throughout Victoria that city council is becoming polarized, that the election last fall of community-based Ald. Bill McElroy and Robin Blencoe has forced it into an ideological left/right split, that Politics, with a capital P, will soon make the council chamber as bitter and unproductive a place as the provincial legislature.

In an attempt to prove or disprove this theory, an analysis was carried out of all the split votes that occurred at council's regular meeting last Thursday night. Unanimous votes, of which there were many, were not included because a high proportion of them were on totally non-controversial topics such as adoping the minutes of previous meetings or adjourning.

The analysis covers the votes of the seven aldermen who were present, Ron McKenzie having been away. The mayor is not included in the analysis because he did not vote on every issue.

The results were amazing. One suspects that an equally coherent pattern might have emerged if the names for and against had simply been chosen randomly on every issue.

A total of 10 split votes occurred. They covered a wide range of issues from rezonings of various sorts to city hall banking practices to restructuring the city land commissioner's office.

At the end of the evening no pair of aldermen had voted in the same way in every instance, and each alderman had voted the same way as every other alderman at least twice. On only two votes was the split identical, and those two votes dealt with the same issue — the problem of the Belleville Street heritage houses.

The public perception of council seems to have McElroy and Blencoe joined by labor secretary Larry Ryan as the left-of-centre team with Bob Wright, Bill Tindall and the absent McKenzie as the traditionally conservative group. Murray Glazier and John Hayes float somewhere in the middle.

Yet Thursday's votes showed that Ryan voted with Wright and Tindall more often than he voted with Blencoe or McElroy; Hayes voted with McElroy more often than Blencoe did; and Wright and Blencoe, often perceived as the most extreme members of the two sides, voted the same way almost half the time — four times out of 10.

The closest thing to a team that emerged was Wright and Tindall, who went the same way in nine votes out of 10. Next came Hayes and McElroy who saw eye to eye eight times. A number of pairs voted the same way seven times: Wright and Ryan, Tindall and Ryan, Hayes and Blencoe, and McElroy and Blencoe.

In contrast Tindall and McElroy voted the same way on just two occasions.

Glazier confirmed his position in the middle: he voted with every other alderman at least four times, but with none more than six times.

The questions then arise: Is Hayes really a secret radical? Has Ryan really sold out to management?

Or is it just that city council is a group of independent individuals who vote as they see fit on every issue? We'd like to hope so.

RICHARD GWYN

Quebec's Other Laurin

"It is wrong to explain our economic inferiority as the result of our being a minority or of our having been conquered . . . It is we Quebecers, ourselves, who are above all responsible for Quebec's economic decline."

Pierre Laurin

MONTREAL — This is the other Laurin speaking. Not Camille Laurin, the cultural development minister responsible for language legislation that he himself calls "ethnocentric," but his younger brother. From his post as director of the University of Montreal's Ecole Des Hautes Etudes (business school), Pierre Laurin looks at the same set of political, social and economic facts as does his brother, and reaches the direct opposite conclusion.

Last weekend Camille came down from Quebec City to attend the confirmation of Pierre's son. They are on the best of personal terms. Yet the intellectual debate between them probably will do more to shape Quebec's future than will the debate between Pierre Trudeau and Rene Levesque, or that between Levesque and Liberal Leader Claude Ryan.

Not Alone

Pierre Laurin is by no means alone. He belongs to a suddenly vocal group of Quebecers that includes, politicians aside, businessmen like Pierre Nadeau of Petrofina and journalists like Roger Lemelin, publisher of La Presse. His fraternal tie to the best-known separatist ideologue, though, gives Pierre Laurin particular media appeal, and his position as head of French Canada's largest (8,000 full and part-time students) and best business school (a library bettered only by Harvard University's business school), gives him particular clout.

He's 38, short, slight, good-looking, with a thick mane of once-black, now salt-and-pepper hair. His command post is a small, spartan office, a framed Harvard doctorate on one wall, the bookshelves filled with titles like Organizational Stress and Comparative Management.

His personality is open, direct, enthusiastic and positive. The words he uses most often are "common sense," "practical" and "realistic."

On the facts, Pierre and Camille Laurin agree: economic underdevelopment in Quebec, and, among Francophones, comparatively low incomes.

On the causes, they disagree absolutely. Discrimination against the French by the English? "It has existed, and it's inexcusable, but only in isolated cases." The true cause of today's economic disparities, Pierre Laurin believes, "is that we French-Canadians have been brought up to mistrust business, not to be risk-takers, not to compete, except in politics."

Pierre Laurin's target, therefore, is far wider than just the latest set of nationalist politicians. He is attacking a mind set. "Our society is infected by a class of intellectuals who are located in strategic positions in the media, in the teaching professions, in the bureaucracy, and who look upon businessmen as public enemy number one and upon enterprise as somehow sinful." He is attacking, in fact, the entire conventional interpretation of Quebec's history — that of economic inferiority as caused by political oppression rather than as a consequence of a cultural condition.

Laurin delivers his analysis with just a trace of impatience. He considers that he is delivering not ideological heresies, — "Naturally I've been called a vendue," he says, and shrugs — but self-evident common sense. Anyway, by character he prefers to do rather than to analyze.

"Did you know," he says with a broad smile because he knows that I don't know, "that this year one-third of all the graduates in business administration in Canada will be Quebecers? Things are changing. People are waking up to reality. I have no doubt the referendum will be defeated. Quebecers are a deeply practical people."

About the Parti Quebecois drive to unlingualism, Laurin is sharply critical of both sides. "It is obvious that businesses in Quebec should function in French; head offices though, must be exempted." As for anglophone companies which leave, "they are being stupid; they are making a permanent decision on the basis of a temporary situation."

Through today's economic gloom, Laurin sees rays of bright light. "If the politicians don't ruin it, there is absolutely no reason to be pessimistic about Quebec's future." One factor is Montreal's bilingualism. "We can use it to attract international companies." Another is the pent-up entrepreneurial energy of young Quebecers. "I was at our graduating ball last week and came away so proud of my graduates, they are so dynamic, so enthusiastic, so ready at last not to become bureaucrats but to take risks."

Turned Out Differently

As a psychiatrist, Camille Laurin probably would agree about one of the apparent reasons why the two brothers have turned out so differently. Their father was a businessman, a salesman of everything from flour mill machinery to the spokes for wheels of bicycles. Of the six Laurin brothers, Pierre was the closest to their father. Camille, the intellectual, was the closest to their mother.

Camille Laurin, though, probably would not agree about one of the most apparent of the differences between them. Camille, as intellectuals often do, looks at problems. Pierre, as salesmen usually do, looks at solutions. "We must not try to improve our situation by condemning the English. I am too proud a Quebecer to do that. We must do it by acquiring for ourselves the means to compete. When I look at my students, I know they are acquiring those means."

In the end, the debate between Camille and Pierre Laurin isn't about separatism versus federalism. It's about bureaucracy versus entrepreneurship.

Reader asks: should we support African revolutionary movements?

Human Touch

On May 10 I was stranded at the Victoria airport after having lost the keys for my car which was parked there. My spare keys were at home in Victoria. I am writing this letter to express my gratitude to the employees of Vancouver Island Coach Lines, who solved this problem for me.

I arranged by telephone for a friend to bring my spare keys to the dispatcher at the bus depot who in turn passed them on to the driver of the next Airporter bus. When the driver arrived at the airport, he took the keys to the ticket counter, and I was then paged to come and retrieve them. All of this was done for free.

It would have been very easy for the people at the bus depot to have said that they didn't provide that type of service or to have charged me an arm and a leg for doing so. Instead they showed a great understanding of my dilemma by courteously and readily agreeing to do me the favor of transporting my keys. It is people like those bus employees who give Victoria its good reputation as a city with that human touch which we normally associated only with small towns and villages. — David Reilley, 141 South Turner.

Too Loud

This past weekend we spent a night camping at Miracle Beach Provincial Park, Vancouver Island. Because we, once again, have had the misfortune of being serenaded, from our arrival to departure, by electronic music and the exuberant shouting of nearby revelers, we register this complaint.

Since the vast majority of campers want to quietly enjoy the outdoor environment, why are the "quiet hours" only in force (when they are enforced at all) from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m.? Why are a few permitted to play radios, tape decks and stereo equipment so loudly that they monopolize the entire campground atmosphere?

If park authorities do not buckle down on such offenders, serious campers will look elsewhere for outdoor recreation facilities and a valuable tourist attraction will be lost to a minority who use the campgrounds as a cheap place for a loud party. — Douglas and Maureen Koch, 415-243 Gorge Road East.

John Ekstedt

May I congratulate you on your recent editorial support (Times, May 15) of Dr. John Ekstedt, the former commissioner of Corrections. I have not yet seen the Proudfoot commission report, but I did attend a number of times during the course of the hearings and thought they were conducted in a very fair and impartial manner.

I had the pleasure of knowing and working with Dr. Ekstedt for nearly two years and frankly, was quite surprised to hear that one of the recommendations was that the number one person in the corrections branch should be replaced. I always found him to be a very candid and open individual who would seriously weigh (and often anguish over) alternatives before deciding to go forward with a particular course of action. I applaud Dr. Ekstedt for the dedication with which he discharged the duties and responsibilities of the office of the commissioner of corrections. — Peter A. Insley, 1234 Oxford Street.

Mildly Patriotic

Re: the letter by Jean Parker, Times, May 2, concerning U.S. military insignia on civilian clothing in Canada:

I would like to suggest that as those "revolting" articles are marked "Made in Canada," she should contact the manufacturers, who no doubt are only interested in making a fast buck. Maybe they also are "mildly patriotic Canadians." — Zoie Tashdjian, 1029 Belmont Avenue.

African Politics

I wonder if those Victorians who are currently donating to African liberation movements will, after the Kolwezi massacre, think twice before making further contributions.

For other black "Patriotic Fronts" are equally skilled at murdering whites. Red Cross workers, missionaries of all creeds, defenceless women and children; all are grist to the mill of the terrorist with a Kalashnikov machine pistol in his hands.

And those Victorians who think that all the whites in southern Africa "have it coming to them" (I have heard this phrase on several occasions) should perhaps think again. It is a matter of record that where Marxists are engaged in a revolutionary war to take over a country, they will murder those of their own race who oppose them or refuse to support them. It was true in Russia in 1917. It was true in Vietnam. It is also true in southern Africa, where Rhodesian Patriotic Front terrorists, operating from Mozambique, recently executed the members of a whole native village whose only crime was that they didn't wish to support the guerrillas.

I understand that the Christian churches are prominent in raising funds for black liberation movements in southern Africa and that they are supporting the very same terrorists who are equipped by the Russians and Cubans. If this is the case and certain Canadian churches are involved in international politics in this way, then I wonder if they should continue to be considered as purely religious institutions. This would seem to raise a further question. If the churches are in fact and in deed no longer purely religious institutions but religio-political organizations, should their many properties continue to qualify for land tax exemption? — Peter Gage, 308-250 Douglas Street.

Needs Support

The local Blissymbolic program is involved with instructing handicapped individuals to use Blissymbols as a communication system. The program has been most successful in its goals and has altered the functional abilities of many people. The number of individuals interested in utilizing the services of the program is increasing rapidly.

As a result of recent publicity, many people within the community have become aware of the Blissymbolic program. Increasing community awareness of the program's service is reflected also in expanding membership of the Greater Victoria society for Alternative Communication for Handicapped Individuals. The positive community response to the program indicates that it is evolving as a valuable and necessary service.

The Blissymbolic Program is currently funded by a Canada Works grant which expires June 2. Appeals for further funding have been made to the ministry of education, ministry of health and ministry of human resources. At this time no definite response has been received from any ministry and time is running out. Hopefully this service will be continued as it does offer basic assistance to many individuals with special needs.

I would like to encourage all individuals who are concerned about this issue to voice support for the Blissymbolic Program. Hopefully, action at this time will ensure continuation of program services. — Terry Ryan, chairman, Greater Victoria Society for Alternative Communication for Handicapped Individuals, 507 Springfield.

Strange Priorities

Can anyone at the Times tell me why the effort of 2,500 concerned Victorians to get legal protection for the thousands of unborn Canadian children killed by abortion each year got one line of coverage while the Case for Animal Liberation (May 15, page five) involving an effort to save six baboons gets five six-inch columns of type. You certainly leave no doubt as to where your priorities lie. — M. Chernenkoff, 1764 Triest Crescent.

Old Music

Walking along Yates Street, I heard the sound of music — an old-time player piano, operated by Jim of Jim's Antiques, who, I found out, was closing his store on Johnson Street for one week and sharing with visitors and citizens of Victoria the music of the Victorian and early Edwardian days. Beautiful and nostalgic, many visitors have commented on this wonderful sound and wished it was on all summer. Alas, no, Jim has a living to make, but surely we can bring this to all Victoria. I am recording it and as soon as it is edited will be visiting a few private hospitals and senior citizens' homes.

The Victorian Days Society has done a good job in this instance. Those with tape or cassette recorders may wish to add to their library this unique sound. Jim welcomes all interested, on Yates Street, down from the library. — Arthur H. Thomson, 2-1120 Blanshard Street.

Italian Cochise Hits the Dust

By DAVID WILLEY

VENICE—The entire underworld of Venice turned out last week for the funeral of Italy's best-known prison escaper.

Silvano Maistrello, nicknamed Cochise after the Red Indian chief, was shot dead by police in a dramatic gun battle on the canals behind St. Mark's Square a few minutes after carrying out a $40,000 robbery at the Bank of Saint Mark.

Silvano had escaped from prison seven times in the past 10 years, and his exploits had turned him into a folk hero.

Among the 700 mourners were leaders of the local Venice Mafia dressed in white suits in the style of Chicago in the 1930s. Local smugglers, petty thieves, and dozens of family friends and acquaintances who knew him as a child were there too.

Old ladies who called him "the boy with the runny nose" when he carried out his first thefts in local shops heard the parish priest of the Church of San Guiseppe de Castello preach a sermon on the theme that all men are equal before God.

The coffin was smothered with wreaths of white carnations, tied with white ribbons.

Silvano's last crime was carried out on a Friday lunchtime. With two accomplices he held up cashiers and clients at the bank and tossed the money into a waiting speedboat.

But the police had been tipped off and closed the canal. There was an exchange of fire and Silvano fell inside his boat, mortally wounded by a burst of machine-gun fire which hit him in the stomach.

Silvano, who was 30 years old, had acquired fame as a sort of Houdini. His first escape was from the reform school where he was sent as a boy.

Smugglers' boats circled the waterborne hearse to pay a final tribute as the funeral procession crossed the lagoon to the island cemetery of San Michele.

Overhead a police helicopter buzzed. At the graveside, police agents mingled with the mourners as they bade farewell to Cochise, the bandit no prison could hold.

Quebec Referendum Bill 'Dictatorial'

By WILLIAM JOHNSON

QUEBEC — The referendum bill is as authoritarian a bill and as incompatible with freedom of association as the worst legislation ever passed by the once infamous Maurice Duplessis.

The normal watchdogs of civil liberties appear to be sleeping. People in the media, in the unions, in universities and in voluntary associations have not appreciated its radical and oppressive features. Their understanding of what it implies has been clouded by the elaborate framework of distortions that the government has built around it.

One example: Robert Burns quoted to a national assembly committee from an Australian bill which, he said, limited total spending in referendum campaigns to one cent per elector. Quebec is not so bad, he said, with its constraints. What he didn't say is that the bill he quoted from never became law. Even if it had, it limited the referendum spending only of political parties — a minor matter — not the spending of all citizens and voluntary associations, as Quebec's bill proposes.

The Quebec bill dismantles freedom of association, removing people's right to take part in a referendum campaign with the leaders they choose, with the associates they choose, with the objectives they choose. The national assembly will impose the leaders, impose the framework, and make it unlawful for people to band together to fight for their views as they choose.

Take two examples which bring out the implications of the bill:

Say a government decides to hold a referendum on the question of decriminalizing abortions. The members of the national asembly, 105 out of 110 being men, all of them politicians, will appoint all the members of the two umbrella committees which will head the opposing referendum campaigns, approve all expenditures and decide on the themes and how they will be presented to the public.

. . . misleading

Citizens who have banded together and pooled their money to express their views through the right-to-life associations, or through pro-abortion and feminist associations, will have no right to spend one cent in the campaign, and will be allowed to participate only to the extent, and in the way, approved by the umbrella committees set up by the politicians.

Or, say a government decides to hold a referendum on the right to strike in public services, or on the right to bargain for wage settlements with raises in excess of eight per cent, or on the right of hospital workers to be unionized. Unions could not spend one cent to advance their views in the referendum campaign. They could participate in the campaign only if — and to the extent — the politicians allowed them. The campaign would be led — totally — by the politicians' appointees.

What justifies so drastic a curtailment of freedoms? The government has confused the public by confusing a referendum campaign with an election campaign. Spending in an election campaign must be controlled because the outcome of the campaign is the appointment of the people who will control the apparatus of the state. To gain power, they will be highly motivated to cheat, to buy people or to make any promise. Once in power, they can pay themselves back and reward their supporters at public expense.

So we protect our liberties by controlling total election expenditures and by requiring disclosure of election contributions. We can do this because our political system is based on the competition of well-structured political parties, which can be held accountable for their expenditures.

But a referendum is not an election. It does not decide which team will hold power. It is simply a more solemn and more thorough public opinion poll. As long as each of the options is fully presented, fully explained, fully defended — and this is ensured by granting an adequate subsidy to each side, as Britain did for its 1975 referendum — it is not important to limit total expenditures.

Moreover, the Parti Quebecois implicitly recognizes the difference: it requires disclosure of all election campaign contributions above $100, but no disclosure of contributions to a referendum campaign.

The important control in a referendum campaign is at the floor, not the ceiling: the minimum expenditures of each side must be ensured by law to ensure full public understanding. The maximum is not of comparable importance.

Moreover, political parties can be held accountable since they came into existence and acquired their structures and leadership over years, decades. But would this be true of an "umbrella committee" created ad hoc by members of the national assembly, with leaders appointed by politicians and not chosen by the participants? Could such a committee approve a responsible budget and all the referendum plans of millions of citizens living in thousands of municipalities, representing the most opposing views?

No country in the world has such legislation. If the Parti Quebecois persists in passing the bill in its present form, it will deserve to be stigmatized in the judgment of history. It will also provoke justified concern about the kind of country the party hopes to found.

The Globe and Mail

Another Kind of Robbery

MANCHESTER GUARDIAN
An Editorial

Does truth have a price? The first authorized version of The Great Train Robbery has just been published by three separate publishing companies. The companies are coy about the fee each of the robbers received for collaborating in the venture but it looks like their most valuable haul since the robbery itself. Piers Paul Read, the author, concedes in the book that their initial asking price was £10,000 each. No group of robbers has been so romanticized by the press. And now that 10 of the robbers have formed themselves into a limited company the romance seems destined for further growth and prosperity.

Now that the real story can be told, how different is it from the version presented by the prosecution to an Aylesbury jury in the 49-day trial in 1964? Almost identical: one robber did fix a false danger light on the signal to stop the express; another cut the telephone wires to prevent people in nearby farm houses raising the alarm; the train driver, fireman and post office sorters in the mail van were all overpowered, and with sub-military efficiency, the £2.5 millions in old notes were loaded into a lorry and driven off to a remote farm house. The mail bags, we now learn, were hard to load because of their weight and even "giants like Charlie, Gordon and Jim were quickly exhausted by the effort." But they continued because "they was all part of a machine — they could not stop."

All of which raises two points. If this is the truth, what did these daring men say in 1964? The cuttings are now yellow, but they tell a very different story. Only one of the gang was prepared to plead guilty. One claimed to be at a party, another found a taxi-driver to swear he was at a club. Douglas Goody accused the police of "planting" khaki paint on his shoes — the same color used by the gang to paint the vehicles which they used in their raid. His mother told the court that he was in bed on the morning of the raid. It now transpires that it was Goody who grabbed train driver Mills from behind. Moreover, "while Goody pinned his arms to his body, Buster Edwards hit Mills twice over the head with his cosh."

This leads us to the second point. The coshing takes up only four lines in the book. Perhaps train driver Mills should be permitted to retell his version: he described how he found himself facing a masked man in the cab of his train with "an iron bar in his hand wrapped in white cloth." The man had tried to hit him with it but he had grappled with the robber and tried to push him off the footplate. "I almost did, but I must have been struck from behind. The next thing I remember I was on my knees in the cab. The cab was full of men . . . the blood was running down into my eyes. One of them wiped my forehead with a piece of rag. I was feeling very distressed. They told me if I looked around I would get some more . . ."

Driver Mills was unable to return to driving after the assault, and two years later was unable to work at all. There was at that time no compensation by law. He did receive a certificate from British Railways for his "courage and resource" in the face of the assault, and a cheque for £25. Four years after the assault he died from influenza. The new book costs £5.95. Those who would prefer to donate to the widows and orphans of railwaymen should send their donations to: National Union of Railwaymen, Unity House, Euston Road, London NW 1.

russell baker

Notes on the espionage business, jotted while recuperating from an overdose of spy novels.

Spies are old and tired and sick of it all.

Their home office is in London, but they are very seldom permitted to go there. They are expected to stay out in the cold, looking seedy and lunching on meat pies and bad coffee.

This keeps them in Berlin a great deal of the time and allows them to become involved with frauleins. Afterward they sit alone over meat pies and coffee brooding upon their failed marriages and wondering if their children still love them.

The frauleins usually get murdered or turn out to be spies for the Russians, the Chinese, the Americans or the home office in London, which trusts nobody.

For this reason, spies spend many of their idle hours wondering why they didn't go into more agreeable work when they were young.

One day they are called to London for a meeting with Control. Nobody knows who Control is. Even Control's wife believes he leads a humdrum life as a floorwalker at Harrod's. Having lost faith in him, Control's wife has been carrying on for years with a Socialist member of Parliament.

For this reason, Control is old and tired and sick of it all. There is talk in Whitehall that he is losing his edge, that he has gone downhill since Eton.

When spies are called home to meet with Control, they see the telltale signs of age, fatigue and the sickness of it all. Spies are trained to detect such weaknesses.

"Control is old and tired and sick of it all," spies say to themselves.

They have tea in the office and engage in hollow heartiness. This gives Control the chance to size up spies and see whether life out in the cold has destroyed their character. He notes with sadness that they are old and tired and sick of it all.

For this reason and others, Control does not trust spies. Spies do not trust Control, either, and for good reasons.

Having read as much spy literature as the next man, they know that Control is either (a) a Soviet or Chinese agent, (b) the chap who arranges all those murders of frauleins in Berlin, or (c) a man of such unscrupulous fidelity to his country that he will have his own spies murdered whenever necessary to protect his network.

Naturally, their blood runs cold when Control becomes sympathetic and says, "You're old and tired and sick of it all, aren't you, old chap?"

This is the way Control always begins when proposing one last big job, with the promise that when it is over the spy will be given a desk job in the home office reading cables from equatorial backwaters for rotten pay while being kept under surveillance by the secretaries.

When spies hear this from Control they realize that they are probably going to be given the business. If Control has something big in the air, it's a cinch that any small fry, old, tired and sick-of-it-all spies he chooses to involve will be used only as pawns.

The spies know this, and Control knows they know it. What's more, spies know Control knows they know it.

What spies don't know is why they have stayed with this filthy buiness all these years. Control doesn't know either. Once there was principle involved in it, duty to crown and self. But that was when they were all young and peppy and had not foreseen that they would get mixed up in the dirty business of murdered frauleins.

And now — now they simply plow ahead, double-crossing each other, watching the frauleins fall like duck pins, living on meat pies and filthy coffee, and seeing their wives waltzing around the West End with flashy Socialists.

Living in an unrelieved state of depression, spies always accept the big job, even when it takes them to Macao. It is better than retiring to Bognor Regis with nothing to do but think about what rotten husbands and fathers they have been.

Moreover, even in Macao they are certain to find one last chance at true love, for, though the meat pies of Macao are not much to smack the lips about, the chances are excellent for finding a youthful Eurasian knockout who can restore a spy's sense of simplicity, honor and loyalty.

Afterwards, they know, Control's plan may require them to be shot as part of a master scheme to pull an intelligence coup, but on the other hand, maybe Control will only need to have the Eurasian beauty ventilated.

It is a 50-50 chance to survive for another bout of weltschmerz. Maybe even better, since it's altogether possible that Control will be exposed as a Soviet spy back in London and given the chop before the Macao scene becomes messy.

Spies are old hands at computing the odds. Not like the innocent Americans from CIA who do it all with computers and lack all sense it takes to become old and tired and sick of it all.

CFP Plans Upgrading

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian Forest Products Ltd. will start upgrading two sawmills this summer as the next phase of a $25 million modernization program at its Eburne operation in Vancouver.

The company has said the large investment is justified by the need to replace old converting equipment, simplify the mill flow and introduce modern lumber sorting systems.

business

Wardair

Consolidated net earnings of Wardair International Ltd. dropped $315,000 during the first quarter of 1978 over the same period last year, the company says.

Revenues, however, at $37,343,000 for the quarter, were 26 per cent higher. Wardair attributes the increase to higher sales of tour charters.

Expenses were also higher, resulting from higher operating volumes, inflation, the lower value of the Canadian dollar and costs of fleet acquisition.

Mercantile Bank

The Mercantile Bank of Canada reports a balance of revenue after taxes for the second quarter ended April 30, 1978, of $4,363,923, or 54.5 cents a share, compared with $2,984,474, or 37.3 cents a share, for the corresponding period in 1977.

After-tax balance of revenue for the first half of fiscal 1978 was $8.4 million, or $1.05 a share, compared with $6.7 million, or 83.9 cents a share, in the first six months of 1977, an increase of 25.5 per cent.

Mercantile Bank's total assets reached $2,165 million at the end of April, 1978, a rise of 16.6 per cent from the previous April, when assets stood at $1.856 million. Total loans rose by 15.3 per cent to $1,632 million and total deposits by 16.2 per cent to $1,957 million.

Toronto Bank

Toronto Dominion Bank announced that balance of revenue after income tax for the six months ended April 30 was $58.8 million or $1.55 a share compared with $48.8 million or $1.29 a share for the same period last year.

The second quarter balance of revenue was $29.1 million or 77 cents a share compared to $22.4 million or 59 cents a share for the same quarter a year ago.

Richard M. Thomson, chairman and chief executive officer, said the bank experienced in the second quarter a modest decline in interest rate margins on international business. Despite two prime rate increases, domestic loan margins remained unchanged.

'Big Run' Begins

More than 400 Vancouver Island runners took part in the simultaneous Atlantic and Pacific start of a fund-raising relay run Saturday for Big Brothers of Canada which will end in Ottawa by Fathers' Day, June 18.

About 120 runners carried a baton through Victoria, passing it to the Esquimalt track team to relay it to Duncan, where it was picked up by Nanaimo runners.

In Nanaimo, other groups which had started from Comox and Port Alberni met and took the baton to Vancouver.

At the same time, other teams started from St. John's, Nfld.

The eastern and western relay runners plan to travel day and night at a jogging pace to cover more than 11,000 kilometres. A third relay run, through southwestern Ontario, will join the other two for the finish in Ottawa at the end of Big Brother Week.

The relay run — The Big Run For Little Brothers — was organized to bring public attention to the work of Big Brothers, an organization which provides guidance and friendship to fatherless boys through 135 agencies across Canada.

The run also will serve to raise money. A spokesman said 90 per cent of the funds will be returned to the communities raising the money to expand local Big Brother services.

Total Ban Urged On New Zoos

The conditions in most B.C. zoos are deplorable and a ban should be placed on the establishment any new zoos, provincial SPCA executive director Bill Leach said over the weekend.

Leach said a 1972 survey of B.C. zoos by the SPCA showed that most were in terrible shape.

Because of that, he said, the province should take a hard look at a proposal by the Tynehead Zoological Society to use government financing to establish a $30 million zoo on about 450 acres on land in Surrey.

"I would question whether the public wants another zoo, or whether they would want to subsidize keeping animals in captivity," said Leach.

He said he was opposed to the Tynehead proposal and noted that whenever a zoo gets into financial trouble the animals are the first to suffer.

Leach also struck out at existing zoos that collect wild animals that have been injured on the highways.

"Deer with three legs, goats with broken horns and animals with other injuries do not make good exhibits," he said.

FAMILY LAW BRIEF FROM UVIC SCHOOL

The B.C. Association of Social Workers has asked Attorney-General Garde Gardom to make family law easier for people to understand.

The association said in a brief to Gardom that in the case of divorce, family members should be able to work out some of the details themselves instead of having to rely on the courts and legal system.

The brief was released by Jocelyn Gifford of the University of Victoria school of social work.

It calls for more work on amendments to the Family Relations Act, including clearing up sections that are not straightforward.

Proposed amendments to the act are so complicated families must go to court to figure out property settlements and child support, according to the society.

Family members must know where they stand and must be assured their rights will be protected, the brief states.

ANDERSON WINS GRIT NOMINATION

After three years' absence from active politics, David Anderson has taken the first step on what he hopes will be his return journey to Ottawa.

Anderson, who was MP for Esquimalt-Saanich from 1968 to 1972 before becoming leader of the B.C. Liberal Party, will represent the Liberals in the next federal election in the new riding of Cowichan-Malahat-The Islands.

He defeated Jim Campbell, chairman of the Capital Region Board, 144 to 53 at a nomination meeting in the Mill Bay sports centre Saturday.

By the time Anderson left federal politics in 1972 to run as a provincial MLA, he had built an international reputation as an outspoken environmentalist vehemently opposed to supertanker traffic on the West Coast.

He lost his seat in 1975.

In the last federal election former national NDP leader Tommy Douglas took the Cowichan-Malahat-The Islands riding by more than 2,000 votes.

But Douglas isn't running this time and the riding has been split in two, with Cowichan-Malahat-The Islands running south from Ladysmith and taking in part of the urban area (View Royal, Colwood and Langford) that used to belong to Esquimalt-Saanich.

Although he admits to no more than a 50-50 chance of winning, Anderson believes the addition of the southern urban area and the loss of the Nanaimo district has stripped the NDP of some support.

The NDP candidate, Rev. Jim Manly, was nominated last October, but the Conservatives were first into the fray 11 months ago when they nominated school teacher Don Taylor.

cern about the vulnerability of U.S. air bases, radar stations, supply depots and command centres.

While NATO has a 2-to-1 numerical advantage in tactical nuclear warheads, those weapons are considered to be of use only as a last resort for fear that they could touch off a worldwide holocaust, NATO officials have said.

Adding to worries about the conventional arms imbalance is a secret study prepared for NATO leaders. It shows that the Soviet Union plans to increase military spending by five per cent a year over the next decade while their gross national product (GNP) is expected to rise only four per cent annually.

The same study indicates, however, it is unlikely that the Warsaw alliance would attack as long as NATO keeps up its guard.

Alarmed by the tip in the military balance toward the Soviet Union, NATO members agreed last year to draw up a three-part, long-range plan to improve the West's defences:

Most member countries pledged to increase their own defence budgets in real terms by three per cent each year between 1979 and 1984.

They also pledged immediate measures to improve anti-tank and anti-armor defences, to stockpile munitions and better combat-readiness and reinforcement arrangements.

Along with the long-term defence program, NATO leaders are to discuss the sharing of defence purchases, a major sore point in relations between alliance members. European members want the United States to buy more of their defence products.

The conference will probably also discuss the problem of Turkey. The country is upset a U.S. senate committee rejected proposals to lift an American arms embargo imposed after Turkey invaded Cyprus in 1975.

France and Greece, who are not NATO members, will be represented at some of the summit sessions. But French and Greek representatives will not attend the talks on the long-term defence program.

MONTREAL (CP) — A heat wave which has shattered temperature records in recent days continued here Sunday, with the mercury hitting a high of 31.9 degrees celsius, the highest for a May 28 since 1911.

The highest overnight temperature for a May 28 — 20.3 degrees celsius, set in 1960 — was also broken Sunday morning. The lowest the thermometer reached was 20.8.

Record highs were also set Thursday and Saturday.

Zaire Siege Picture Clears

44 Europeans had been discovered in one villa.

The report was not altogether false. When Western journalists arriving the next day were taken to the villa massacre site, they saw European bodies stacked in a pile in one small room and seemingly executed all at one time. As best as they could determine, there were 34 bodies, but the number verified later by French and Belgian authorities was 27.

Correspondents heard the same day reports from European refugees and French and Belgian military sources of three or four other massacre sites, but none could be visually confirmed during their brief visit.

Yet refugee accounts already began to conflict with the official thesis of who was killing whom. Two French survivors said they had seen 20 Europeans executed en masse not by the rebels but by men wearing Zairian army uniforms.

On the same trip to Kolwezi, Belgian correspondents were taken aside and told by high Zairian authorities that 60 white hostages taken off by the retreating rebels had been killed and their bodies spotted on the road leading southward to the Zambian border.

However, the report was erroneous. No one has been able to confirm exactly how many Europeans were seized as the rebels left Kolwezi and none of their bodies has been found.

The French also seemed to play politics with death tolls last week, as illustrated by the mid-week announcement of 200 Europeans having been killed — while in Kolwezi not even the French military could confirm half that number.

As for how many Zairian civilians died in the siege, the toll will probably never be known. Western correspondents saw only one African execution site, where there were 17 bodies. But they saw dozens of individual Zairian bodies scattered in the European section of town where the fighting apparently was the heaviest.

Most seemed to have been killed in crossfire. Zairian doctors and Red Cross workers report many others died in their homes, hit by stray bullets or mortar shells.

LITTLE BUMP COST PLENTY

It wasn't a big bump but it cost plenty all the same.

Two AirWest Twin Otter seaplanes bumped together Saturday as one was preparing to leave the airline's Inner Harbor terminal for a flight to Vancouver.

Gusting winds were cited as the cause.

No one was injured in the incident, but one of the planes suffered between $500 and $1,000 in damages. It will be back in service within a few days.

ARMED FORCES DAY celebrated the Captain Cook Bicentennial this year, but for the children who were admitted behind the scenes at CFB Esquimalt and HMC Dockyard, it was the old fascination of guns, uniforms and loud noises that gripped their imagination. At left, Grant Breiland and Blaine Johnson are ready for all eventualities as they ride in an armored vehicle, while at right Vicki Barkhouse learns the basics of firing a machine gun from Sgt. Peter Okopski and Private Norm Yakimchuk. The destroyers HMCS Terra Nova and HMCS Kootenay were also open to the public and attracted several thousand visitors.

Princess Patricia's Last Summer

Times Staff

Thirty years after she entered Esquimalt after a 9,626-mile maiden voyage from Scotland's Clydeside, Canadian Pacific's Princess Patricia is due to go out of service this year.

Regional manager Bob Ferguson of Vancouver says she will be making her last run from Vancouver to Alaska on Sept. 28. When she ties up in the Mainland city on Oct. 6 her days with the Canadian Pacific will be over.

The Princess Patricia's demise means there will no longer be a Canadian flag vessel on the Alaska cruise circuit.

Ferguson says the main reason the 320-passenger vessel is being taken out of service is new regulations which will be enforced by the U.S. Coast Guard in 1979 for vessels travelling in American waters.

"By the end of 1979 the ship will have to meet new regulations requiring self-contained sewage treatment. Her revenue would not cover the huge investment involved to do that job," Ferguson said.

Asked if there was a possibility the ship could be used on runs in Canadiam waters, Ferguson said it is "possible but not likely."

He would not say whether the vessel had been losing money in the past few years but conceded returns had been borderline.

Whether the Princess Patricia should be put up for sale has not yet been decided.

She is the sister ship of the Princess Marguerite, which was bought by the former NDP government in March, 1975.

Originally intended as a day vessel, the Princess Patricia plied the Vancouver-Victoria-Seattle run and was later used on the Nanaimo-Vancouver crossing.

After a refit in which more staterooms were added to her original 50, she assumed the role of cruise ship, running between Canada and Mexico.

Her Alaska runs began in 1963.

The only other Canadian flag vessel used on the Alaska circuit was the Canadian National's Prince George. She was to have completed her Alaskan cruises in 1975 but a $100,000 fire took her out of service.

Built in Victoria in 1947, the Prince George was bought by the provincial government in 1975 for $230,000 and 28 acres of crown land at Prince George, valued at $70,000.

The succeeding Social Credit government dismissed the NDP's plans to refurbish her and use her on the B.C. coast, selling her to Wong Brothers of Nanaimo for $320,000 in 1976.

By a Little Creek, Ancient Magic

EXCEPT WHEN A WINter freshet turns them into brawling torrents, the little creeks north and south of our house call no attention to themselves. Too humble to merit the dignity of bridges, they slip under the highway through culverts, and so on down to the sea.

By local report, which I have yet to check out, the twin creeks are branches of the same flow, which originates in a swampy area of beaver dams and cuttings a few miles inland. Their diminutive size belies their importance. They are nursery streams for salmon, and each harbors a transient population of trout.

These trout are small — much too small to warrant the attention of any serious fisherman. But a while ago we fell to thinking how nice a few of them would be in a pan with their crisp tails turned up, and planned an expedition.

Such creeks are not fly fisherman's water. The cover through which they tunnel their way is too dense, and their pools too confined for casting. If they are to be fished, it must be done boy-style, with a short line and a worm.

Even on a dry and sunny day, finding worms posed no problem. As an aid to gardening, we maintain a compost, and its rich, damp soil makes it an angleworm's paradise.

I sank a spade in it and turned up a chewy black clump. It was seamed pink with large and super-lively worms — more than enough for our needs in that one generous spadeful. Win gathered them into a can with earth and a little damp moss to keep them frisky. Then we rigged our rods, turned our backs on the sharp salt sea by which we live, and set out for Stories Creek over a network of subdivision roads.

There on the inland side of the highway, we passed from spring to early summer. On our place, there is no lushness of growth — the cooling effect of saltwater guarantees that.

But when we traded the subdivision fringe for the creek-bordering woods, we were at once swallowed into warm and leafy jungle. We pushed our way through a head-high opulence of salmonberry, guided by the whisper of running water.

Before were we ready for it, there ran the creek, slipping and sliding past a grey-trunked alder to ruffle across a tiny gravel bar that deflected its flow against the far bank. That glide, dark and all of two feet deep, had a properly trouty look about it.

"Want to give it a try?" I asked.

Win helped herself to an agile worm from the can. She threaded it without compunction to a hook at the end of a tag of thin nylon leader. Then she poked her rod-tip through the crowding greenery that overhung the creek.

We were enclosed in a green and golden world, its sounds the murmur of water and the subdued call of a bird in a thicket. Time had no meaning here. That belonged in the outside world, where people had work to do and appointments to keep and responsibilities to carry. Here, for a while, we were free to soak in one of life's older and more curative magics.

"Got one!"

A bright-sparkling troutlet dangled in an arch of greenery, flipping at the end of Win's line. But it was too short by an inch: a mere 7-incher. We turned it back perhaps with wariness learned, into the creek.

Our lunch sandwiches hadn't fared too well in my jacket pocket, but we ate with good appetite, leaning against a massive alder trunk with the creek chuckling through its freshet-exposed roots. Then we returned to our fishing, although not with very serious intent.

A myriad of little trout haunted the runs and pools. But the eight and nine-inch monsters we'd hoped to find still stubbornly eluded us.

We worked our way through the crowding growth to a larger, deeper pool. I drifted a worm down it . . . felt a brisk tug . . . and tightened into a fish which must sure have been a 10-inch leviathan. The hook didn't engage. The trout went free, taking my worm with him.

By way of compensation, we discovered a profusion of wildflowers, including chocolate lilies, and a wonderful sending of ladyslippers.

A rewarding day, and one that we like to remember, even though we came home from it with never a trout to sizzle.

Redesign Square, Province Asks

Bastion Square should be re-designed at Wharf Street in order to encourage a greater flow of pedestrian traffic to the waterfront, the provincial government said today.

In a letter to city council's planning committee George Giles, the associate deputy minister of recreation and conservation, said pedestrian links between the square and the former Reid site on the Inner Harbor must be vastly improved.

The province plans to develop the Reid location but first wants to ensure the public will have easy access, especially those on foot coming through Bastion Square.

Giles' letter contained little on what the government plans to build on the property but he did say it would include walkways, a public area and retail space, including room for a food facility.

He said the development "is intended to attract and serve the people on the waterfront and also to anchor and reinforce the Old Town and its commercial base."

"The scale of our project, which is primarily to provide a public amenity and not necessarily to provide an economic return is, we believe, inhibited by the present design of Bastion Square," Giles said.

He said the square is designed as a cul-de-sac, inhibiting rather than promoting a flow-through of pedestrian traffic.

Giles said the Wharf Street end should be changed to focus on an inviting access to the street and Inner Harbor below.

He added that the province would be prepared to underwrite the design and reconstruction costs.

Giles' proposal will be dealt with by council's planning committee in a meeting Tuesday morning.

$55,000 Blaze Likely Arson

Suspicion of arson was under investigation today following a $55,000 fire in the Yarrow building Saturday.

Victoria deputy fire chief Mike Belton said investigators suspect arson but had nothing definite on the cause.

Firefighters answering the alarm at 11 a.m. had difficulty locating the source of smoke that was coming from the first and second floors until fire was discovered in a basement room of McGill and Orme druggists.

The blaze set off a mixture of irritating and toxic fumes from a quantity of hydrochloric, muriatic, sulphuric and nitric acids. Choloroform and hydrogen peroxide was stored there. Several firemen complained of severe headache and were treated with oxygen and eyewash.

Two of the half-dozen men affected were released from duty.

Smoke, fire and water damage to the building was estimated at $5,000 and to stock and contents $50,000, including the pharmacy and Elsie's Gift Shop adjoining.

McKINLEY CLIMBED

Former Victoria resident Bob Bowman was part of an expedition that has completed a climb of Mount McKinley, the highest point on the North American continent.

Bowman, 27, who was born and raised in Victoria and now lives in Vancouver, is on his way home from Alaska, his father, Bill Bowman, said today.

The expedition left Seattle May 6 and reached the ice-covered summit of the 20,320-foot mountain 16 days later. It was one of the earliest ascents of McKinley. Most climbs take place later in the summer.

MOLESTER SOUGHT

Two 12-year-old girls told police Saturday they ran from a man they said was molesting them in a vacant lot near Clarke and West Saanich Road.

He was described as being about 25 years old, five-feet-eight, with reddish blond shoulder-length hair and moustache, bloodshot blue eyes and yellow teeth, and wearing blue jeans, white T-shirt and green quilted vest.

Siphoners Nabbed

Two young men tampering with a truck parked a block away from a police station were arrested Sunday by Oak Bay police.

The two, aged 19 and 21 and both from the Prince Rupert area, apparently were siphoning fuel from a truck on Lulie Street at 11:22 p.m. They were to be charged with theft in provincial court today.

Thomas Colin Andrews of no fixed address was charged this morning in provincial court with breaking and entering and was remanded until next Monday for election of trial method. He was released on $500 bail.

POISON SEEDS

Small children should be warned away from poisonous laburnum seeds that drop from boulevard trees at this time of the year, city police said today.

They have taken a number of youngsters to Royal Jubilee Hospital poison centre to have stomachs emptied and advise parents to tell their children of the danger.

Usual treatment is to give an emetic to induce vomiting.

Diver Inquest Set

A scuba diving enthusiast from Washington state was drowned Sunday while diving with other Americans in Finlayson Arm.

Donald Wayne Waid, a 23-year-old welder from Carnation, Wash., a community near Seattle, was drowned in 100 feet of water off Elbow Point on the east side of the inlet.

RCMP said Waid was visiting Victoria with friends who were diving with him or nearby when the accident occurred about 11 a.m. Sunday.

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre has scheduled an inquest at the Law Courts at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Sunday's drowning was the second involving a scuba diver in Finlayson Arm waters within five months.

Claus Gorgichuk, an officer cadet at Royal Roads, died Jan. 8 while diving in about 50 feet of water near Hall's Boathouse.

Nixon Basking In PoW Tributes

LOS ANGELES — Former U.S. president Richard Nixon was relaxed and "very much at ease" and he basked in the attention he got from former U.S. prisoners of war, say several guests who attended Nixon's weekend party for the former PoWs.

"He was very warm, very much at ease," said Karen Jones of San Diego, whose husband, Bob, spent five years in a North Vietnamese PoW camp. "Perhaps he was comfortable because he was surrounded with people who respect him so much."

"Nixon seemed very relaxed," said navy Capt. Eugene McDaniel of Pensacola, Fla., a former PoW. "He was really happy that we were there, just as we were happy to be there. We both have a great deal of respect for each other."

The former captives presented Nixon with a painting of a PoW prison uniform hung up for the last time. The painting, signed by all of the former PoWs, was inscribed with the words: "To President Nixon in appreciation to our commander-in-chief for his courageous decision that brought about our return."

The inscription referred to Nixon's decision to send B-52s to bomb North Vietnam.

"For this, sir, we have a debt of eternal gratitude to you," the PoWs' spokesman, air force Maj.-Gen. John Flynn, told Nixon.

Nixon, in turn, had kind words for the former PoWs.

"This is not only the biggest party we've held at San Clemente, it's the best — because you're here," said Nixon.

NEW TRIAL FOR MENTEN

THE HAGUE — The Dutch Supreme Court today ordered a new trial for millionaire Pieter Menten, sentenced to 15 years in jail last December for war crimes.

The court said the judges who tried him in Amsterdam last year did not go deep enough into the question of whether he had been tried before for the same offences.

Menten, 79 last Friday, will remain in prison.

VICAR LOSES HIS JOB AFTER SEX SWITCH

LONDON — A vicar who became a woman after a sex-change operation has resigned because by Church of England law no woman can be a priest.

A Church spokesman said that the vicar chose to leave his parish earlier this year after talks with his bishop, legal experts and the Archbishop of Canterbury.

"Church law is very specific about the fact that the women cannot be priests. His resignation effectively cancels his licence to officiate anywhere again," the spokesman said.

The vicar's identity was not disclosed, but he was said to have been at a rural church near Blackburn, northern England.

A vote on possible admission of women priests is expected to be taken this year by the Synod of the Church of England.

Overseas churches "in communion" with the Church of England have already allowed women to become priests.

Blood Pressure Problem for Cugat

LOS ANGELES — Bandleader Xavier Cugat was reported in fair condition at Cedars-Sinai Medical Centre after being admitted to hospital for "control of high blood pressure."

Paramedics took the 78-year-old specialist in cha-cha and other Latin dance rhythms to the hospital Sunday for breathing difficulties after responding to an emergency call from his home.

Hospital spokesman Tess Griffin said Cugat's physician ordered the bandleader to the hospital in an ambulance because he suffered a stroke five years ago. She said he was resting comfortably in a private room.

The Spanish-born Cugat's career as a dance orchestra leader streched from the big band era of the 1940s into the Latin dance craze of the mid-1960s.

His third wife, Abbe Lane, accompanied his brassy rhythms with vocals in the late 1960s. He recently was separated from his fourth wife, singer-entertainer Charo.

Lawyers Mixed on Ads

VANCOUVER (CP) — Leading trial lawyers and spokesmen for the large law firms here say they are neither for nor against advertising within the profession.

Many of them don't feel they need to advertise, although they say that informational, as opposed to promotional, advertising would benefit the public.

None of the province's 3,500 lawyers is allowed by the profession's regulatory body, the Law Society of British Columbia, to advertise services. Recently, North Vancouver lawyer Donald Jabour and Vic Stephens, lawyer and provincial Progressive Conservative leader, have been found guilty of breaking the society rule.

Many leading trial lawyers agree that fees for solicitor work could be reduced by the introduction of low-cost legal clinics in which the fees for routine work would be advertised.

While agreeing that it is desirable for the profession to introduce a system in which a lawyer would be permitted to advertise his specialty — family law, motor vehicle accidents, criminal law, labor disputes — trial lawyers do not favor full-scale advertising.

What concerns them is the possibility that advertising by practicioners who do nothing but solicite for work will force courtroom counsel into promoting their practises in the manner of car dealers.

Trial lawyer fees are high and the lawyers say that their type of practice, in which many work a 15-hour day while preparing a complex case, is worth every penny of the $100-an-hour fee most charge.

They set their fees at about $1,000 a day — $100 for each hour of a five-hour day in court and $100 for each corresponding hour of preparation.

Despite such fees only a handful of prominent trial lawyers are likely to be in the $100,000-a-year bracket. There are no more than 240 court days a year and with provision made for preparing cases even the most successful lawyer would be hard-pressed to handle 100 trial days a year.

Negotiations Break Down

VANCOUVER (CP) — Talks have broken off between more than 500 members of Local 210, Graphic Arts International Union, and 13 Vancouver area printing plants including Evergreen Press, a union spokesman said Sunday.

The union has been without a contract since May 1 and the next step in the dispute could be a strike vote, the spokesman said.

HANG GLIDER PILOT SLAMS INTO HOUSE

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — Patty Cotton thought a thunderstorm was brewing when she heard a loud bang above her house Sunday.

But when she went outside to investigate she found hang glider pilot Locksley Mitchell lying under his mangled craft, moaning in pain from a fractured hip.

Mitchell, 29, of Burnaby, had lost control of the glider as he made his approach to a landing spot beside the Cotton house. He hit the corner of the roof, sliding down the other side of the house to the ground.

Mitchell was in good condition in hospital Sunday night.

Ms. Cotton, 18, said the family has never had problems with hang gliders, which take off from nearby Grouse Mountain and waft down to land on a sandy lot beside the house.

Semi-Town Centres Urged

VANCOUVER (CP) — Unincorporated areas in the province should automatically be given a semi-municipal status once they reach a certain size, Vancouver Mayor Jack Volrich told the regional district review committee here.

Volrich, speaking as president of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities (UBCM), said Friday the procedure would help alleviate the problems that occur when people living outside a city want to use the city's services without paying for them.

The UBCM presentation was the last brief the committee heard in their last sitting in Vancouver. The committee is sitting today and Tuesday in Victoria before retiring to write its report.

Logging Labelled Threat To Wildlife

CRANBROOK (CP) — The prized wildlife and unique isolation of Waterton Lakes National Park in southwestern Alberta are threatened by a logging project in southeastern British Columbia, says Max Winkler, the park's chief warden.

He told a meeting of government officials, park rangers and naturalists here Friday that a B.C. government decision to log parts of the 90-square-mile wilderness area bordering Waterton and Glacier National Park in Montana would endanger some of North America's finest surviving trophy animals and big game.

Winkler said logging roads would give hunters an easy shot at big game ranging freely between Waterton and the B.C. wilderness area. Logging roads would also lead to public pressure for an east-west highway linking Waterton with the East Kootenay region.

But Erik Karlsen, an advisor to the B.C. cabinet committee which lifted a 22-year ban on the development of the wilderness area, said one-third of the wilderness area has been declared a protected "special study" area.

The buffer zone is intended to keep logging and logging roads about 10 kilometres away from the Waterton park, he said. The B.C. cabinet's decision was also due to an infestation of pine beetles eating their way through about three square miles of Lodgepole Pine.

Tentative CUPE Pact Reached

KELOWNA (CP) — A tentative agreement has been reached between Penticton civic workers and their employer, the chief negotiator for the employer's association said Sunday.

Siedo Tzogoeff, negotiator for the Okanagan Mainline Municipal Labor Relations Association (OMMLRA) here, said a memorandum will be signed Tuesday with the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

Tzogoeff, whose organization bargains for 11 Okanagan municipalities, said the Penticton settlement is the last big settlement to be reached, with only Kelowna remaining.

SURPRISED AT EASE Of VICTORY; TOM SNEVA SECOND

AL UNSER
. . . hit wall on pit stop

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Al Unser, who fought the scorching heat and challenges from Danny Ongais and Tom Sneva to gain his third Indianapolis 500 victory, already is setting his sights on a higher target.

Unser became only the fifth driver in the 62 years of the annual auto racing event to win three times. Now, the younger of the racing Unser brothers from Abluquerque, N.M., is aiming at A. J. Foyt's record of four.

Foyt won his first three 500s in a seven-year span. Unser, the winner here in 1970 and 1971, needed eight. The only other three-time winners are the long-retired trio of Mauri Rose, Wilbur Shaw and Louis Meyer.

Asked if he thinks he can match Foyt's accomplishment, Unser replied: "I sure in hell will try. Look how long it took A. J. to do it."

Unser, who is expected to collect about $250,000 of the $1 million purse, turned 39 today. Foyt, who won his fourth Indy in 1977 at the age of 43, took 10 years to move beyond three.

Bobby Unser moved one spot closer to his victorious brother Al today when the official results were announced.

Unser completed 196 laps, one more than the number with which he was originally credited, to gain a fifth-place finish. Wally Dallenbach moved back to sixth.

In another position change from Sunday's unofficial results, Janet Guthrie slipped from eighth to ninth with George Snider advancing to the eighth spot.

Al Unser won the race with an average speed of 161.363. He led the race through laps 76 to 107, 111 to 179 and 181 to 200.

The way was cleared for Unser's win when the lead-footed Ongais, a former drag racer and a two-time winner on this year's U.S. Auto Club championship circuit, burned out the rotor on his turbocharger during the 145th lap of the 200-lap race.

That ended a duel which saw Ongais fight off first Sneva, the pole-sitter and defending USAC national champion, then Unser through the first 75 laps of the race.

Unser, driving an experimental Cosworth-powered Lola, took over on the 76th lap and led the rest of the way, except for brief periods for pit stops.

Not entirely lost in the excitement over the duel among Unser, Ongais, Sneva and 1973 winner Gordon Johncock, who finished third, was the ninth-place finish by Guthrie. Guthrie, the first woman ever to drive at Indy, went the distance in only her second try.

While the mechanical problems, compounded by surface temperatures as high as 49 degrees Celsius (120 Fahrenheit), sent a nearly steady stream of broken cars back to Gasoline Alley, Guthrie drove a steady, unspectacular and trouble-free race.

Guthrie, a veteran on the stocker car circuit, said: "Driving a championship car 500 miles is markedly less taxing than driving a stock car for a comparable distance."

Unser wasn't thinking about stock cars, but he noted things went so easily Sunday that "it made me wonder why I hadn't won all 13 I raced in."

After Ongais's sudden departure, Unser was sailing along with a 35-second edge over Sneva. With Sneva's charge, however, the final margin was 8.3 seconds, the second-closest finish ever, dating back to 1937 when Shaw nipped Ralph Hepburn by 2.36 seconds.

"On my last pit stop (with 21 laps to go), I was pushing so hard I scraped my car against the pit wall, damaging the wing," Unser said. "I didn't know at that point whether something very serious had happened.

"I was mad at myself for overshooting the pit. I worried about being able to finish. But over-all, everything went very well."

The car, which owner Jim Hall called "a conventional racing car," was nevertheless a new one here with the first foreign engine to win at the famed 2½-mile oval since 1940.

The tense race, untouched by the tragedy of earlier years, was slowed only by six yellow caution flags. The only accident of the day saw Spike Gelhausen walk away unhurt after scraping his car against the wall along the backstretch midway through the race.

Cliff Hucul of Prince George, B.C., the only Canadian entered, dropped out soon after the start of the race because of engine trouble on his McLaren-Offenhauser.

The Lions: Another Campaign Under Way

On opening day of the 1977 football season B.C. Lions had eight new starters, six new reserves, two newcomers on the injury reserve list, one on the suspended list and four more exploring the scenic wonders of the Coach House Motor Inn.

At that point they were an unknown and highly suspect quantity, a rebuilding team coming off a year in which it had once again avoided the inconvenience of post-season activity.

This year, however, they are an established club, a team that finished second in the west and won the semi-final before losing a snowball fight to Edmonton Eskimos. So there is no need to make that many changes again. Wrong.

When the 1978 Lions open July 11 against Winnipeg Blue Bombers there will be no fewer than six and possibly as many as nine new starters, two or more new backups, and perhaps two or three cuts so struck by the climate you couldn't chase them out of town with a stick. And the reasons for overhaul are every bit as valid this year as last.

The 1977 Lions finished 10-6. Take away a total of 18 seconds and they'd have been 7-9.

Twice they won on the final play when time had expired. Once they beat Calgary with 18 seconds left. It's true that the good teams win the close ones, but it's not the sort of record that allows a serene winter's rest.

They did not finish the league schedule strongly, and after revving up to beat Winnipeg in the semi-final they tapped out 38-1 against Edmonton.

Thus, the renewed rebuilding campaign. There is a subtle difference in that this time Vic Rapp knew what he had and could recruit for spots, but it is at least a partial overhaul. Rapp has known it all along.

Rocky Long retired on the weekend. It was the right move. He's 28, he's got a good job as an assistant coach at U of New Mexico with a good shot at the top spot in a few years. The Lions wanted him back and they'll miss him, but the timing is right.

Mike Strickland retired Sunday morning. The time is all wrong.

The Lions are not interested in keeping Strickland, and he knows it. They spent the winter trying to trade him and had no takers. So he's retiring rather than go to camp, hoping he can shop around and catch on on his own.

It seems a useless gesture. If he'd gone to camp and been cut, he'd at least have had the chance to get into hitting shape, and when they cut him he'd have been free. On the retired list he loses camp time—and it will be that much tougher to make his own deal because any club interested would have to compensate the Lions.

The Lions wanted him to reconsider. Bob Ackles called him in for one last try Sunday morning. Strickland was adamant.

In a way you can see his reasoning. he had no place in Rapp's plans. Both running backs will be new. But you keep remembering the Strickland of 1976, all India rubber and sheer try. After all the good games, it's a sad way to see him leave.

Strickland, Long, Don Wunderly, Jim Schneitz, John Sciarra, Jim Harrison, Larry Uteck. . . all on last season's finishing roster, all gone today with more casualties sure to come.

How secure can Charles Anthony feel, counting 13 other linebackers on the roster and knowing that the new 3-4 defence makes linebacker a prime area for import changes?

Four linebackers mean three down linemen instead of four, and Frank Landy has a lock on one spot. How are you, Jesse O'Neal, coming off a spotty season and knowing that the coaches weren't terribly thrilled?

Hello there, Tyrone Walls and Richard Appleby, squabbling over the tight end spot you split last season—so ineffectively that Rapp called the position one of his top priorities for the coming year. Maybe one of you will make it—but then, what if J. P. Brescacin happens to have a decent camp and Rapp decides to go with a Canadian?

What if. . .? Coaches go to bed at night muttering it over and over again.

At the start of the season Tom Kudaba was considered good enough to be a starting guard. Late in the year John Blain had beaten him out. What if both Canadians could be starters? Then Al Simpson and Layne McDowell and Larry Watkins are fighting each other—never mind what other competition may emerge—for two offensive tackle slots.

What if. . . .?

Joe Fourqurean lounges outside the medical room, jammed full of rookies being jabbed, prodded and handed medical forms to fill. ("You see that Jim Young guy's medical sheet?" one rookie asks another. "Man, where is said 'previous injuries' he 'bout had to turn the sheet over to get 'em all in!").

"Will you look at all those bodies!" Fourqurean marvels. "How's a man s'posed to keep a job with all those bodies around?"

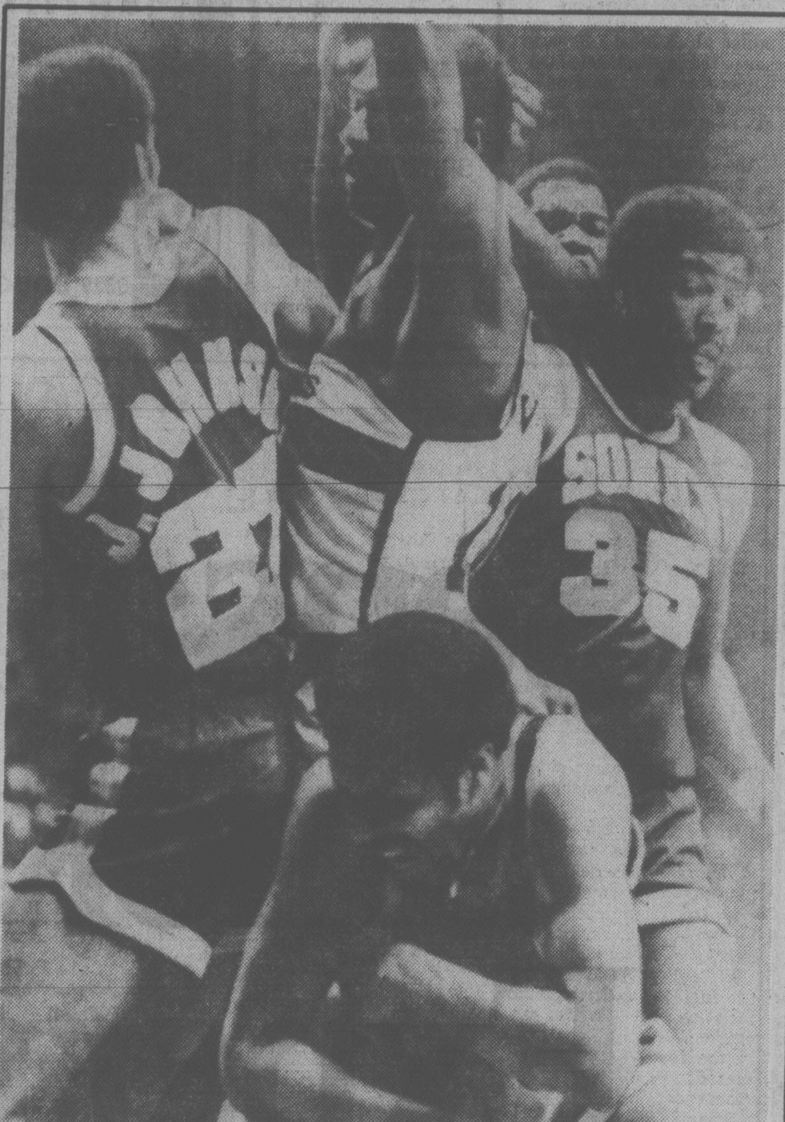
But he is grinning as he says it. He's seen five times that many come and go. It is camp time. For the first week at least, you don't even bother getting the names straight.

Hibs Romp At Edmonton

EDMONTON (CP) — The touring Hibernian Soccer Club of Edinburgh trounced an Edmonton amateur all-star side 7-0 Sunday before about 12,000 fans.

Forward Alistair McLeod scored three goals, twice on penalty kicks, with forward Arthur Duncan adding two.

The win was Hibernians' fourth in five stops on a seven-game Canadian tour. The Scottish club was held to a 2-2 draw last week by Vancouver Whitecaps.



HEAVY TRAFFIC is all around him as Seattle's Fred Brown covers ball after hauling in rebound during Sunday's National Basketball Association playoff in Landovér, Md. Sonics' John Johnson (27) and Paul Silas (35) put squeeze on Washington's Elvin Hayes. Seattle won 93-92 decision. (AP Wirephoto).

Unselfish Effort Gives Sonics Lead in Final

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — There is no one hero on Seattle SuperSonics, which is why they are just two games from becoming National Basketball Assoication champions.

"We play team ball, unselfish ball," says forward Paul Silas, at 34 the dean of the Sonics and a two-time NBA champion as a member of the Boston Celtics. "We don't care who shoots or gets the points. We have a goal at ths point and everyone is tuned to that goal — to win."

The Sonics moved a giant step closer to their goal Sunday by edging Washington Bullets 93-92 to grab a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series. Immediately after the game both teams left for Seattle, where the Sonics can wrap up the first title in the club's 11-year history with victories Tuesday and Friday. A sixth game, if necessary, would be played here Sunday.

Tuesday night's game will be played in the Kingdome because the Sonics' regular home court, the Seattle Center Coliseum, is occupied. A crowd approaching 44,000 is expected.

Sunday's victory was a triumph of Seattle's balance over the individual brilliance of Washington forwards Elvin Hayes and Bobby Dandridge. Hayes had 29 points and 20 rebounds and Dandridge 21 and nine, but the rest of the Bullets were impotent, combining to shoot 24 per cent.

Seattle's centre Marvin Webster was a force with 20 points and 12 rebounds. Gus Williams ran Seattle's fast break masterfully and scored 20 points. Rookie forward Jack Sikma scored 17 and didn't shy away from anyone under the boards.

To avoid losing in the finals for the third time in eight years, the Bullets must now win three of four, including two in Seattle.

JANET PROVES HERSELF WITH NINTH-PLACE FINISH

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — After fighting three years to prove herself behind the wheel, Janet Guthrie hopes her ninth-place finish in Sunday's Indianapolis 500 will leave her just another driver with a satisfied sponsor.

"I was shooting for the top five, but I got the top 10—and I'll take it," Guthrie said, moments after easing out of her Wildcat racer and into the arms of her ecstatic crew.

Guthrie endured a hairline fracture in her right wrist, suffered Friday in a charity tennis match, and a cockpit too short for her 5-foot-9 frame. She pushed her four-cylinder car to an average speed of 152.965 m.p.h.

A year ago, she finished 29th in her first Indy start, spending more time in the pits than on the track.

She clearly felt her performance had dealt a blow to any who still doubted her ability to race with the top drivers on the U.S. Auto Club circuit.

Has she proven anything?

"Probably in somebody's mind, but not mine," she said. "I'm glad if it meant something to people who think that a woman still couldn't do it—maybe this will be one more little bit of evidence against that."

Easy Win by Macs 'Not Good Enough'

Victoria McDonalds unleashed 63 shots and pumped in 18 goals en route to an easy 18-9 victory over Coquitlam J-Hawks but, in the eyes of the Macs' coach, it's "not good enough."

"They played just well enough to win," was the blunt observation offered by Muzz Bryant after Sunday's Western Canada Junior Lacrosse League triumph at Esquimalt Sports Centre. "A bit sloppy at times.

"We have to work on offense. We need more movement, especially in making blocks. My players are just brushing by their checks instead of taking the men out."

Bryant doesn't want to be unduly harsh on players that just provided a victory, but he sees this year's team as one "with great possibilities" and they'll reach potential quicker if they concentrate on technical finery and not "just counting the goals scored."

"Sometimes there's too much emphasis on the scoring," Bryant added. "The best players out there tonight were Ron Sage, Mark Roberts and Rhys Wickes. Sage got three goals and Roberts two, but it was their defensive play that impressed me.

"They were the stars of the game. . .for their defensive play."

The Macs, who outshot Coquitlam 63-29, moved into sole possession of third place with the victory, two points behind second-place New Westminster Salmonbellies and two ahead of Richmond Roadrunners, who visit the Sports Centre on Tuesday night.

In addition to Sage, Ed Van Dyk also scored three goals. Matching Roberts' two-goal performance were Doug Angrove, Murray McLaren and Wayne Reeve while Rav Pallan, Jim Boyd, Tarey Pollock and Greg McInnis scored singles. Reeve also picked up five assists while McLaren and Paul Michael each were credited with four helpers.

Macs counted six goals while utilizing their odd-man play and counted three while killing penalties.

Richmond was held to fourth place by suffering two losses at the weekend. Beaten 21-18 Saturday in Richmond by New Westminster, the Runners bowed 15-12 to undefeated Burnaby Cablevision on Sunday.

Wrong Call Wrecks No-Hit Bid

Chicago right fielder Bob Molinaro was heard but not seen and it cost Francisco Barrios a no-hitter. Umpire Dave Phillips was seen but not heard and it cost Detroit Tigers a ball game.

Barrios finished with a two-hitter in pitching Chicago White Sox to a 4-0 victory over Oakland A's in the second game of a doubleheader, but the only clean blow was Gary Thomasson's double with two out in the ninth.

Up to that point, Oakland's only hit was Jeff Newman's fifth-inning pop fly that fell between second baseman Jorge Orta and Molinaro.

"It was my fault," Molinaro said. "I called Orta off the ball, but I guess I called too soon and couldn't get to it. Sure, I thought about it later. I'd have hated to see him lose a no-hitter that way. I was relieved when they got that double. It's normal, isn't it?"

The White Sox also took the opener 3-2, snapping a six-game losing streak.

Meanwhile, the Tigers were clinging to a 3-2 lead over Boston Red Sox with two out in the bottom of the eighth inning when Carl Yastrzemski singled and Carlton Fisk doubled. First baseman Jason Thompson fielded Fred Lynn's sharp grounder behind the bag and Phillips clearly motioned foul.

Pitcher John Hiller, seeing Phillips' indication, failed to cover the base and Lynn beat Thompson's belated dash to the bag as Yastrzemski scored the tying run. The Red Sox won 4-3 on Jim Rice's 18th home run of the season in the 10th inning but needed only nine innings to capture the nightcap by the same score.

"I don't know what he yelled," said Hiller. "There's no way you can be listening with a crowd of people in the stands. I watched his hand and he motioned foul."

Explained Phillips: "I turned to get out of the way. The ball wasn't even close to being foul. I didn't realize I gave any sign."

Meanwhile, Baltimore's Jim Palmer scattered eight hits for his second consecutive shutout and his 200th career triumph as the Orioles beat Cleveland 3-0 after the Indians took the opening game 4-3 in 10 innings.

In other American League action, New York Yankees swept Toronto Blue Jays, 5-3 and 6-5 in 13 innings, Milwaukee Brewers downed California Angels 6-3 and Kansas City Royals nipped Minnesota Twins 8-7 in 12 innings. The Seattle Mariners at Texas Rangers game was rained out.

In the National League, San Francisco Giants beat Los Angeles Dodgers 6-5, San Diego Padres defeated Cincinnati Reds 3-1, Atlanta Braves beat Philadelphia Phillies 5-3, New York Mets trimmed Houston Astros 4-1, Pittsburgh Pirates defeated Montreal Expos 5-2 and Chicago Cubs beat St. Louis Cardinals 2-0 in a game halted after six innings because of rain.

A record crowd of 56,103 won on hand at San Francisco's Candlestick Park to see Mike Ivie pinch hit a bases-loaded home run in the Giants five-run fifth inning.

ELFIE SCHLEGAL. . .only 13 but a Canadian champion

Schlegel New Champ; Delesalle, Beer Win

OTTAWA (CP) — Elfi Schlegel of Toronto said her upset victory Sunday over Karen Kelsall of Surrey, B.C., for the senior national Gymnastics title was " just another day's work."

"But I'm very excited about it now," the 14-year-old said after defeating the defending national titleholder at the Canadian gymnastics championship.

Phillip Delesalle, Canada's foremost gymnast, won his third consecutive senior men's title Saturday with Jean Choquette of Montreal finishing second.

Schlegel, Kelsall, third-place finisher Sherry Hawco of Cambridge, Ont., and Monica Goermann of Winnipeg were named to represent Canada at the Commonwealth Games in Edmonton in August.

Delesalle, Choquette, Warren Long of Montreal and Owen Walstrom of Victoria were chosen to the men's Commonwealth team with another selection to be made later.

Long was forced out of the competition Saturday with a leg injury suffered while doing his floor exercise routine.

Men's coach Keith Russell said Long and Walstrom were chosen over several others because of performances at meets earlier this year and because Walstrom showed strength in competitive areas where other entrants had shown comparative weakness.

In the running for the Commonwealth Games berths were third-place finisher Nigel Rothwell of Windsor, Ont., Pierre Leclerc and Pierre Clavel of Montreal and Masaaki Naosaki of Toronto.

Men and women's teams for the world championships in October will be named following a meet Sept. 8-10 in Cambridge, Ont., near Guelph.

The senior men competed Sunday for individual titles and Delesalle won the pommel horse, parallel bar, rings and high bar.

Pierre Carrier of Montreal won the vault and floor exercises.

Russell ranked Delesalle's overall score of 111.90 in winning the men's championship with some of the performances of the world's best gymnasts. He added that Canadian judges are among the hardest markers anywhere and the high score would rank Delesalle about fifth in the world.

In the junior events, Tracy Beer of Victoria won the national women's title with Kathy Beckwith of Winston, Ont., finishing second followed by Dianne Sabourin of Montreal.

Dan Gaudet of Toronto won the men's junior title finishing ahead of teammate Frank Nutzenberger and Yves Dion of Quebec City.

Schlegel, a four-foot seven, 74-pound bundle of energy and grace, had many of the 1,400 spectators roaring their approval on several occasions.

During the floor exercises, she successfully completed a difficult double-back somersault on her way to near perfect 9.75 (out of 10) score.

On the beam, made famous by such international stars as Nadia Comaneci of Romania and Olga Korbut of the Soviet Union, Schlegel was exciting and daring in her optional routine and nosed out Kelsall.

Kelsall won the vault and uneven bars and said she expected Schlegel to be tough.

"I have competed against her for two years and she beat me in a meet out west earlier this year for the first time."

Kelsall said she is looking ahead to the Commonwealth Games and the world championships and thinks Canada will have a strong team.

Tom Green of Kingston,, Ont., was the senior men's trampoline champion while Alison Pester of Toronto captured the women's title.

Leaders Pad Victory Streak

Esquimalt Universal Sheet Metal expanded an unbeaten record to five games by defeating Hampton Park Hustlers 12-8 in a South Island Senior "B" Lacrosse League game Sunday at Pearkes Arena.

In another game, Saanich Metro Honda tripped Victoria Athletics, 16-13.

The results left Esquimalt out in front with a 5-0 record followed by Hampton Park (3-2), Saanich (2-2) and Athletics (0-5).

Kim Browning led Esquimalt with three goals and three assists while John Entzminger added three and two and Brian Spaven contributed two and two. Ross McKinstry had four assists.

Rob Clifford set the pace for Hustlers with three goals and two assists while Tom Somner scored twice.

George Grover and Rick Bains blocked 35 shots in the Esquimalt goal. Al Radley and Jim Fisher combined to make 27 saves for Hustlers.

Peter McCreesh and his brother, Jim, did the most damage for Saanich. Peter had five goals and seven assists while Jim finished the evening with a four-and-four record. Bill Van Buskirk helped with four goals and three assists.

Wayne Ferguson (four and five) was the top marksman for Athletics while double tallies were contributed by Bob Derraugh and Don Brown.

Cook's Arm, Bat Helpful to Gorge

Rick Cook was the key figure for Gorge Hotel in Sunday's Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League action at Lambrick Park.

Cook pitched his fourth consecutive victory in the opener of a double-header and allowed only five hits as Gorge defeated Capital Radiators, 6-2.

He then hit a pinch-hit home run in the sixth inning of the nightcap to give Gorge a 4-3 victory. Mike Squire, who relieved starter Rick Shenton in the second, got the win, his first.

EARLY BURST COOLS SALMONBELLIES

Shamrock Potential Showing

Victoria Shamrocks served notice Saturday night that they do have the power to go with potential that everyone gave them credit for at the beginning of the Western Lacrosse Association season.

Scoring nine goals on only 12 shots against the New Westminster Salmonbellies in the first period at Memorial Arena Saturday night, the Rocks blew the 'Bellies right out of the game before they ever got started.

And although New Westminster did manage to stage a rally of their own in the second period, scoring five gols in seven minutes to bring the count to 10-5, the game, to all intent, was over, the Shamrocks finally rolling up a 19-12 edge.

Victory lifted the Rocks to first place, two points ahead of Nanaimo Timbermen who defeated Coquitlam Adanacs at Coquitlam, 18-14, and the idle Vancouver Burrards.

One of the oddities of the opening burst by the Shamrocks came when they were playing shorthanded on a penalty to Gerry Cadwallader.

Chris Hall must have established a record of sorts when he scored two shorthanded goals just 30 seconds apart and both unassisted.

Ron MacNeil, who took over the league scoring lead from Kevin Alexander of the Timbermen on Wednesday night with 13 points, paced the Rocks again Saturday with four goals and two assists. But it wasn't quite good enough to keep him all alone in first place in the points race. Alexander had four goals and five assists at Coquitlam and each now has 50 points.

Dan Green, who seemingly has recovered from the injury that troubled him last year, also scored four goals for the Rocks while Ivan Thompson, returning after a five-game layoff, scored two as did Gord Lyons, Dave Thomson, Rick Baker and Hall. Art Webster had a single.

For New Westminster, Bill Mosdell had four goals and Brian Tasker two with singles going to Walt Weaver, Bob Tasker, Norm Leuszler, Mario Govorchin, Ken Brown and Dan Brown.

The Salmonbellies, who defeated the Shamrocks 11-8 earlier in the season, may have had an excuse Saturday as they were without Al Lewthwaite, Chuck Medhurst, Wayne Goss and Ray Bennie,

Thompson, in returning to the Rocks, said he had solved the problems that caused him to take a few games off and would be playing out the season for the Irish.

Ranjit Dillon, the Shamrock captain, and the player with the longest service for the club, also made his return and said the injured shoulder which had sidelined him in last year's playoffs appeared to be in good shape and had not caused him any discomforture.

Coquitlam got four goals from Mark Valastin and a pair each from Moe Jodoin, Randy Bryan and Nick Delmonico, along with singles from Jim Aitchison, Dave Cochrane, and Gord Quilty.

Coquitlam goalie John Lewis scored his third goal when he ran up the centre of the floor late in the second period and fired one past Nanaimo's Mac Maude.

Shamrocks are home to Coquitlam, Wednesday, while the Timbermen host Burrards at Nanaimo.

WLA commissioner Roy Burton announced that the two top teams following the games of June 17, but excluding the Nanaimo-Victoria game of that date, would represent the WLA in the Commonwealth games at Edmonton in August. At that time all the teams will have played a balanced schedule.

Milk-and-Honey Look To Haslam's New Auto

It takes gas and oil to make it go, but Roy Haslam's new Garden City Special looks like a milk-and-honey bet to the Victoria race car driver and his sponsors.

The custom-built 1978 Camaro and Haslam shape up as the hottest new race combination in the Pacific Northwest after roaring to victory in the first two races of this year's Driver's Challenge Series.

With a chilled crowd of 3,490 watching, Haslam roared to victory in the series opener Saturday at Western Speedway and then made it two-for-two with another triumph Sunday in Langley.

At Langley, Haslam posted the fastest qualifying time (14.84 seconds), finished second to Tacoma's Ron Eaton in the fast heat and then roared to victory in the 75-lap main event.

Brian Selby of Calgary finished second in the main while Roy Smith, another Victoria driver, came in for third-place money.

Eaton won the "A" trophy dash while Mike Rollins of Tacoma took the "B" trophy race.

At Western, Haslam needed 25 laps to work his way to the front. Once there, however, he held on to win the first open super-stock race of the year.

Surrey's Reg Kennedy lead the main-event field for the first eight laps before being overhauled by Smith, who recorded the fastest qualifying time (16.74). After relinquishing the lead to Haslam, Smith ran second until his 1974 Nova blew a head gasket on the 41st lap.

Rick O'Dell finished second and Selby placed third.

Kennedy's car dropped oil on the track on the 40th lap and, despite cleanup attempts by track officials, that made passing difficult for the rest of the 75-lap race.

Homer a Good Way To Wreck No-Hitter

By his action, Ken Lane says if you're going to spoil a no-hitter, then you should "spoil it good."

The Port Angeles outfielder did it "good" by connecting for a fourth-inning home run Sunday that carried Telecable to a 1-0 victory over Ingraham Hotel and a split of their Stuffy McGinnis Men's Softball League series at Central Park.

John Barnes checked Port Angeles on two hits to provide Ingraham to a nine-inning, 1-0 victory in the second game.

And 1-0 was also the result as Athletics nipped Sooke Merchants while Elks edged Juan de Fuca Builders 4-3 in Sunday's other games. Juan de Fuca topped winless Batesons 4-2 in a Saturday game.

Taylor House Movers put the brakes on Hygrade's runaway pace in the Heywood Men's League by upsetting the leaders 5-1 at Heywood Avenue Park.

The win moved Taylors into a second-place tie with Capital Builders, who swept a doubleheader from the Athletics, 4-3 and 10-9.

A two-run double by Vic Gee was the key blow in Capitals' first victory. Gee also clouted a two-run homer in the second game and ignited Capitals' winning, three-run rally in the bottom of the seventh by leading off with a single.

In Sidney Men's Association play at Sanscha Park, Tsawout won both ends of a doubleheader against Saanich Breakers 8-2 and 11-4 while Hermsen Construction collected their first victory of the season by tripping Travelodge, 4-2.

Emile Maurice struck out 10 batters and allowed only four hits while hurling the 8-2 Tsawout win, which was helped considerably by 10 Saanich errors. Vic Underwood pitched the second Tsawout victory, aided by nine runs in the first inning on four consecutive hits and six consecutive walks off Saanich starter Mark Bradley.

Comeback Try By Joe Gilliam

SPRINGDALE, Pa. (AP) — Quarterback Joe Gilliam, yearning for a return to the bigtime, has signed with Pittsburgh Wolk Pak of the new Atlantic Football Conference.

"I consider myself a better athlete now than when I played for the Pittsburgh Steelers," Gilliam said at a news conference.

The 27-year-old Gilliam's personal battles with drug use and his fall from the National Football League have been well chronicled.

Defence, Rookie Hurlers Main Assets for Budgets

By ERNIE FEDORUK
Times Staff

The pitching performances of a pair of rookies and the defense provided coach Harvey Stevenson with the satisfying plus marks and victory in three of four weekend games for Victoria Budgets.

The defending Canadian senior men's softball champions, handcuffed by Clem Perini's four-hitter, dropped the exhibition series' first game, 3-0, to Vancouver Thirsk 79ers but bounced back to win the remaining three games at Royal Athletic Park.

Rookie Larry Cole checked in with a no-hit performance to get Budgets back on track in Saturday's second game, 7-0, and Budgets, sparked offensively by a pair of two-run homers by Bob Burrows, scored 4-0 and 2-1 victories Sunday.

Budgets did not commit an error in the four weekend games.

The performances by Cole and Dave Wilson, who took credit for the 4-0 shutout Sunday, delighted Stevenson. They picked up the slack created by Stan Kern's absence because of a back injury.

The fireballing Kern continues to undergo treatment but it will be another week, at least, before the veteran of the Victoria staff is permitted to start throwing again.

So the rookies, joining holdover Andy Konopacki in sharing the mound duties, stepped out at the weekend to prove they could do the job. They handcuffed, rather effectively, the team that could be Victoria's biggest threat in its bid to claim the British Columbia championship for an eighth successive year.

Cole retired 21 of the 23 batters he faced. The only players to reach base were Don Walden, who was hit by a Cole pitch in the first inning, and shortstop Don Freund, who drew a fifth-inning walk.

Other than that, Cole had Thirsk batters baffled. He struck out seven and allowed only two balls to be hit out of the infield.

The recently-married Wilson, throwing for the first time in 25 days, followed up with his four-hit shutout in Sunday's first game. The newcomer from Ontario displayed great coolness when Thirsks got their leadoff batter on base three times. Each time — in the first, second and fourth innings — Wilson retired the side with the Vancouver players still on first.

Burrows, without a hit Saturday night, got the range Sunday. He capped a three-run burst in the fifth inning with a two-run clout over the centre-field fence to put the insurance on Wilson's victory, then banged another two-run homer in his next time at bat, to almost the identical spot in the second inning of the series finale, to provide Konopacki with all the runs he needed.

Budgets generally had problems with men on bases. They stranded 22 runners in the four games.

Infielder Carl Walker was the most consistent Victoria batter, collecting five hits during the weekend. Leadoff batter Dave Williams had three hits but production by Victoria's other batters was spasmodic.

Bates get back into Northwest League action in Seattle next weekend but return home the following weekend (June 10-11) to host Springfield, Mo., in the first of Victoria's 1978 "super series" of exhibitions.

BORG PICKS UP $24,000; GIVES COINS TO UMPIRE

BJORN BORG
. . . threatens to leave

ROME (AP) — Top-seeded Bjorn Borg, unshaken by a bee and a barrage of coins hurled from a rowdy partisan crowd, downed unranked local favorite Adriano Panatta 1-6, 6-3, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3 Sunday in the final of the $210,000 Italian Open tennis championship.

The 21-year-old Swede, who threatened to walk off the court unless the boisterous crowd calmed down, endured a three-hour marathon in stifling heat for the $24,000 first prize.

Borg, in his first outdoor clay tournament since last October, also survived disputed and changed line calls that always went against him. But his iron nerves held as he personally picked up the coins hurled at him and carried them to the umpire.

At the start of the final, the crowd in the notorious Lion's Pit centre court was told to abstain from "demonstrations that may disturb the players."

Spaniard Jose Higueras, subjected to jeers and catcalls while leading against Panatta in the semifinals, stormed off the court Saturday.

An overflow crowd of 10,000 appeared calm at first, although at times still applauded Borg's errors.

Later, the crowd began to throw coins, turning the centre court at the Foro Italico compound into what one observer said was "a sort of a Trevi fountain."

Borg's patience was on the verge of running out. At one point, he walked over to Italian umpire Claudio Sederici and said: "One more, I leave."

Earlier, in the first set with the score 1-1, Borg was bothered by a bee and, trying to avoid being stung, he appeared to hit his left eyebrow with his racket. Borg received first aid and continued play with a swollen eyebrow.

Talking With Feet Is Better

By Canadian Press

Giorgio Chinaglia let his feet do the talking and the results were quite predictable.

Chinaglia, who was critical of coach Eddie Firmani after last Wednesday's loss to Memphis Rogues, and Dennis Tueart each scored two goals, as the Cosmos breezed to a 5-1 North American Soccer League triumph over Rochester Lancers Sunday at Giants Stadium before a crowd of 41,305.

The victory, which moved the Cosmos eight points ahead of second-place Washington Lancers in the Eastern Division, was their 17th straight triumph at home and tied the NASL record set by Oakland Clippers in 1967-68. The Cosmos next home game is June 4 against Vancouver Whitecaps.

In other Sunday games, Detroit Express defeated Memphis Rogues 3-2, San Diego Sockers edged Chicago Sting 2-1 and Houston Hurrican blanked California Surf 3-0.

In Saturday's action it was Toronto Metros 4, Dallas Tornado 3; Vancouver 2, Washington Diplomats 1; Los Angeles Aztecs 2, Colorado Caribou 1; Seattle Sounders 3, Fort Lauderdale Strikers 1; Oakland Stompers 1, New England Tea Men 0; Tulsa Roughnecks 3, Minnesota Kicks 2, and San Jose Earthquakes 3, Philadelphia Fury 1.

At Vancouver, Kevin Hector opened the scoring for the Whitecaps just before the 51-minute mark and Sakib Vites counted for the Diplomats five minutes later. Bob Lenarduzzi scored the winning goal in the 73rd minute for Vancouver, which outshot Washington 16-10. Whitecaps now have 74 points in the Western Division, two points behind division-leading Portland.

Chinaglia, who questioned Firmani's coaching tactics after the coach had removed him from the lineup Wednesday, scored the first goal of the game at 14:47, and any differences between player and coach seemed to disappear.

"I always say what I feel," Chinaglia said. "It's no crime, it's honesty. He (Firmani) didn't put me down by removing me from the match. We just haven't been playing good soccer on the road so he made some changes."

Tueart, who now has four goals and three assists in the last four games, was outstanding in midfield and helped control the tempo of the game along with Franz Beckenbauer.

Goalkeeper Keith Van Eron recorded his third consecutive shutout as the Hurricane regained first place in the American Conference's Central Division, two points ahead of Detroit.

Toronto Gunner Wins Canadian Skeet Title

EDMONTON (CP) — Don Kwasnycia of Toronto took advantage of Ernesto Caridi's fourth-round letdown to win the Canadian skeet shooting championship Saturday, hitting a total of 368 targets.

Kwasnycia, who also won the title last year, trailed his Toronto opponent by three targets heading into the final round of 100 targets. However, Kwasnycia broke 93 while Caridi hit only 85 to drop to third place.

Fred Altmann of Toronto finished second at 367.

Both Kwasnycia and Altmann qualified for the Canadian Commonwealth Games team. Kwasnycia, Altmann, Caridi and Kian McCaldon of Hardington, Ont., were named to the national squad for the world championships in Seoul, Korea.

McCaldon won the junior title by 23 targets over Terry Schmid of Toronto. Myrna Herbert of Montreal took the women's crown, finishing with a total of 329, eight ahead of Jane McCaldon of Hardington.

"Daddy, when are we goin' over to the confession stand?"

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

In the great majority of deals that are played in a trump suit, declarer, as soon as he obtains the lead, makes haste to gather in the defenders' trumps. But there are certain types of deals where it is rather apparent that the immediate playing of trumps is wrong. Today's deal falls into this latter category.

Neither side vulnerable.

SOUTH

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
6 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ◊.

Technically speaking, North's raise to four spades was an overbid. Having responded with two clubs initially, he guaranteed a minimum of 10 points for his two-over-one response in a new suit. A raise to just three spades would have done full justice to his hand.

After West's opening diamond lead had been captured by South's ace, it was rather obvious that the playing of trumps had to be deferred, for if they were played, declarer would lose a trump and a diamond trick. Declarer, of course, was faced with the immediate problem of disposing of his diamond loser before touching the trump suit. He gave it a bit of thought — and came up with the winning solution.

He cashed the ace and king of hearts, after which he ruffed a low heart with dummy's king of spades. Then came the king of clubs, which East covered with the ace. South, quite naturally, ruffed the ace. Another low heart was now led and ruffed with the board's queen of trumps. On the high queen of clubs South discarded his losing diamond.

Now, at long last, a trump was led, South's jack being taken by West's ace. West came back with a diamond, which South ruffed. The ten and nine of trumps were then cashed, picking up West's two remaining pieces. South now claimed his contract.

Admittedly, when South played his ace and king of hearts at tricks two and three, there was the risk that the second heart lead might have been trumped. But the alternative line — like playing trumps — would have led to certain defeat.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Follow through on ideas. You have a winner, a money-maker on back burner. Know it, organize priorities, capitalize on you experience, abilities. You will get needed backing, support. Short trip follows call or message.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Money decision is made — get rid of "security blanket." Take cold plunge into future. Spotlight on assets, income potential, obtaining needed information, material. You will have wider, more attentive audience. Now is time to expand, to take a chance on yourself.

IF MAY 30 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are versatile, artistic, inquisitive, restless, bright. You have tendency to scatter efforts, to be superficial and to expect something for nothing. "They didn't have a dozen buttons in that style, so I got all they had," Mary declared, handing her mother the little paper bag. "They're all the same and they were priced singly, $9.31 the lot without tax."

Susan smiled. "I guess they'll do for now. We can try again next month."

How many had Mary bought?

(Answer tomorrow)

Friday's answer: Charlie's number was 17.

Lee Told Them Jerry Was Back

ATLANTA (AP) — Jerry Heard, playing with the ease and authority that once made him one of the most promising young players in the game, finished off a five-under-par 67 with a birdie on the final hole Sunday and won the Atlanta golf tournament.

Heard, 31, whose career was threatened by the same lightning bolt that stunned Lee Trevino, scored the fifth victory of his career and first in four years by two strokes over Tom Watson, Bob Murphy and Lou Graham, tied for second.

Heard, whose back was so badly damaged he couldn't move his legs only a year ago, capped his comeback with a 269 total, a spectacular 19 shots under par and a record over the hilly, 6,883-yard Atlanta Country Club course.

Heard, once considered as good or better prospect than his close friend and contemporary, Johnny Miller, collected $40,000 from the total purse of $200,000 and fulfilled a Trevino prophecy.

"Jerry Heard is back," Trevino said two weeks ago when he'd beaten the easy-going guy in the Colonial National Invitation tournament. "He will win in the next few weeks."

They were hit by the same lightning bolt in the 1975 Western Open. Later, both were afflicted by similar back troubles. Trevino underwent an operation and eventually regained his winning ways in the 1977 Canadian Open.

Heard, who had had won four titles and almost one-half million dollars in the years 1971-1974, opted against surgery. He went into a decline in 1976 and played very little the following year.

He spent eight weeks in bed "watching these guys on television, making their swings, and I couldn't even move my legs."

He started back slowly this year, building gradually before making a challenge in the tournament at Fort Worth. This capped the comeback.

FALDO LEADING BY FOUR SHOTS

SOUTHPORT, England (Reuter) — Britain's Nick Faldo is poised to win his first major title after extending his lead to four shots after three rounds of the British Professional Golfers' Association championship.

Faldo, 20, shot a 70 Sunday for a seven-under-par, 54-hole total of 209.

Carner Could Crack Jinx

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP) — JoAnne Carner, the defending champion in the $100,000 Golden Lights champion, took a major step towards snapping a nine-year jinx on the tour by shooting a one-under-par 71 Sunday at the Wykagyl Country Club.

That moved Carner into the lead after three rounds with a six-under 210. Carner has never successfully defended any of her 19 titles since turning pro in 1970.

Nancy Lopez, the 21-year old rookie sensation, went over par for the first time in nine rounds when she shot a 73 over the 6,410-yard course.

Lopez still managed to take sole possession of second place with a four-under 212.

Sandra Post, who was the leader after two rounds with a 138, skied to a 75 and a total of 213 heading into today's final round of the $100,000 tournament.

In shooting her three-over-par round Sunday, the Canadian-born Post had a triple-bogie eight on the par-five 458-yard 15th hole.

Australian-born Penny Pulz also soared to a 75 for a 215 total that was good for fourth place. Amy Alcott and Jane Blalock were deadlocked for fifth with par 216.

Louise Bruce, a native of Toronto, had a third-round 74 for 226, while Dale Shaw of Victoria shot a 79 for 234.

Military Muscle Is Around Corner

BUENOS AIRES (Reuter) — Argentina and its soccer-mad citizens waited in tense anticipation Sunday for the start of the 1978 World Cup finals, but for most of the teams it was a day of rest away from the rising clamor outside.

From World Cup centres throughout the sprawling South American country the picture was the same—quiet preparation for the battles ahead and a refreshing absence of controversial incidents that usually mark the build-up to the summit meeting of the world's soccer nations.

For the last week players, officials and fans have been converging on Argentina, once considered incapable of staging the World Cup finals because of bloody clashes between government forces and guerrillas.

But harsh action by the military authorities has virtually wiped out the guerrillas and removed the likelihood of any major internal threat to security during the tournament.

The authorities are still determined, however, to make sure that the security of the World Cup teams is absolute as any breach would damage their campaign to improve the country's image.

Defending-champion West Germany is one of the most heavily-guarded teams. Its secluded hotel at Ascochinga, 70 kilometres from Cordoba, is off-limits to all but authorized visitors.

The West Germans have brought their own security men, but they are not armed since this was not allowed by the Argentines. Local plain-clothes security men provide additional protection.

But, in most cases, the security is unobtrusive and checks are carried out with courtesy. Few armed soldiers or police are in evidence although military muscle is always available around the corner should trouble break out.

On the soccer front, the consensus is that Argentina, West Germany, Brazil and the Netherlands will win their groups and then go on to dispute the ultimate prize.

With Sweden's arrival Sunday, only Hungary and Spain are awaited to complete the line-up.

In the meantime, the propaganda war will continue to occupy the headlines until the big kick-off on Thursday when West Germany steps out on the River Plate Stadium pitch in Buenos Aires to meet Poland in the opening match.

After three weeks of matches at the five World Cup centres, the two successful teams will meet in the final on June 25.

Lions Gate Race Attracts Big Field

VANCOUVER (CP) — John Hill, 22, of Vancouver, clocked two hours, 20 minutes, 49.6 seconds in winning the seventh annual Lions Gate International Marathon at Stanley Park Saturday.

A total of 522 runners started off in rain to run five times around an asphalt circuit through the park — a total of 26 miles, 385 yards. The starting field was more than double the 238 that ran in the race last year.

Tom Howard of Vancouver set 2:14:33.8 as the fastest mark in 1974.

Second in this year's race was Ross Jackson, 33, of New Zealand, clocking 2:22:54.2, and third was Bill MacIntosh, 26, of West Vancouver in 2:24:24.6.

Gail MacKeen, 20, of Comox, who placed 101st over-all among the 458 finishers, was timed at 2:55:39.6 as the first woman to cross the finish line.

John Linde, 60, of Portland covered the distance in 3:41:34 and placed 346th over-all as the oldest finisher. The last runner crossed the line in 4:53:02.3.

PEEWEE GRID FINAL SATURDAY

It will be Gordon Head clashing with Saanich in the playoff, final of the Royal Oak-Hornets Peewee Football League at Royal Athletic Park Saturday night.

The championship contest is scheduled to start at 8 p.m., following a consolation game, beginning at 6, between Juan de Fuca and Victoria.

Saanich and Gordon Head clubs earned their berths in the final with victories in last Friday's semi-finals. Saanich got a pair of touchdowns from Ken Smith on the way to a 24-0 conquest of Victoria and Raimey Poole contributed two touchdowns, one on a 107-yard run, as Gordon Head rolled to an 18-6 decision over Juan de Fuca.

KILTS JUST TOO MUCH FOR SOCCER SEARCHERS

CORDOBA, Argentina (Reuter) — A massive security operation at Cordoba Airport ran into trouble when guards conducting a body search were confronted with four kilted Scotsmen, who had turned up to greet their national team.

Journalists who saw the incident described the guards as confused and slightly shame-faced.

The main Cordoba newspaper, La Voz Del Interior, described the security operation as inflexible and said journalists and cameramen were prevented from getting near the Scottish delegation.

Soccer Battle Looms

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — A battle is shaping up for Tuesday's congress of the World Soccer Federation (FIFA) on a move by African and Asian federations to increase the number of eligible team World Cup to 24 teams.

At the moment 16 teams take part. That is how the World Cup in Argentina, starting Thursday, will be. And the executive board of FIFA wants to keep it that way.

Artemio Franchi, Italian vice-president of FIFA, said the dispute could split the soccer world.

"Europe wants to keep the World Cup to 16 teams," Franchi said. "The South Americans support us."

Bio-dex

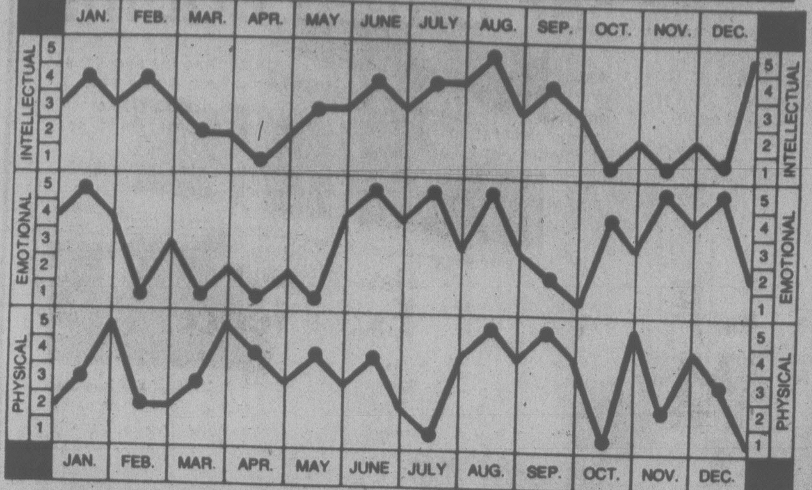
MAY 30/78

Your computerized biorhythm

By Ken J. Michaels

© Copyright 1977

Dist. by Toronto Sun Syndicate



HOW TO USE YOUR CHART:

Locate your month of birth. The dots on each graph highlight your biorhythm readouts. Check the scales on the left or right for your Intellectual, Emotional and Physical factors, from 1 to 5. Add these three numbers to obtain your Bio-dex. The Bio-dex is computed on average population age based on official Government statistics.

BIO-DEX READOUT:

0-5 Negative Cycle-	Your levels are low, but a friend may cheer you up with an unexpected gift.
6-10 Neutral Cycle-	Return that unsatisfactory piece of merchandise rather than let it aggravate you.
11-15 Positive Cycle-	The luxury item you've always wanted tempts you. Your good sense will win.

There's one thing you can count on to galvanize you into action — anger! This is the emotion that drives the most dispirited job-seeker out pounding the sidewalk. Dressed to kill, bright-eyed and glowing with confidence born from a "nothing to lose" feeling — right into a job when least expected. Anger can be the positive force you need, and if your Bio-dex is high, go for broke! Turn all that positive energy into a solid, valuable reward. Unemployment is curable — for those who just will not accept it.

BOY HAS NEW KIDNEY

WOODROW, Sask. (CP) — Michael McCaslin, first Saskatchewan child to receive a kidney transplant, has returned to the family farm near this village in the southern part of the province.

Michael, 4½, was given a new kidney April 8 in Toronto. The transplant was performed by Dr. Bernard Churchill.

"From the time the kidney was put in, he has had no rejection at any time," Bonnie McCaslin, Michael's mother, said.

"We know this is a result of thousands of prayers from all over Canada."

When asked how he liked being in Toronto, Michael replied: "bad, because I didn't have my two big guns."

Mrs. McCaslin said one of the first signs of Michael's recovery was when he was given a new set of toy guns and quickly responded and began to play.

Cleaning Leather

By MICHAEL LAMM

Dear Mike: We recently bought a 1978 Cordoba with leather seats. I'd like to know the best way to clean leather. Everyone we ask has a different answer.—LEATHER.

Dear Leather: It depends on what you want to clean off the leather. For ground-in dirt, use the suds from a bar of mild, non-alkaline soap or a special leather cleaner. For grease, gum, etc., you'll need specific solvents and probably can get the best instructions from a shoeshop.

Dear Mike: I have a 1977 VW Beetle that I plan to put into storage. With regard to the fuel system — carb, tank, lines, etc. — what should I do to prepare the car for long-term storage? — GOING

Dear Going: There's more to it than just the fuel system.

Send me a 13c stamped, self-addressed envelope and I'll mail you complete long-term storage instructions applicable to any car.

Dear Mike: The other day I passed a car on the street that looked like an Olds Toronado Limousine. Did Oldsmobile build limos on the Toronado chassis, or was this a custom job? — PUZZLED

Dear Puz: The Toronado has been fairly popular as a "stretch" for airport limousine duty. There's no driveshaft to lengthen, thanks to front-wheel drive. Stageway, Cotner-Bevington, and other makers of commercial limousines have all stretched Toros down through the years. As an aside, an independet customizer once put a second Toronado engine and drivetrain in the rear of his Toro, giving it two power units in all. I hear that car really flew. It came up for auction a few years ago in Arizona.

Please send your automotive question directly to Michael Lamm, Box 7607-B, Stockton, Calif. 95207.

Common ¢ents

By KATE MacQUEEN

The salt in your water softener may eventually corrode your chrome-plated faucets unless you keep the chrome polished dry. A coat of ordinary furniture wax helps to protect the chrome from the softened water, just the way it does chrome on your car. Green spots on chrome-plating is rust; you can prevent it from spreading by scouring the spots then waxing them regularly.

Don't frown on veneers when looking at new or used furniture. Veneers can be stronger than the same type of solid wood, and veneers don't split or crack. Some of the finest and most expensive antiques have veneers.

Epilepsy: A Long Way to Go

family

By JANE E. BRODY
New York Times

They were at one time thought to be possessed by demons and were subjected to exorcisms; at another time they were considered insane or dangerous and were locked up in institutions. Although these extreme notions virtually died in the medical enlightenment of the 20th century, persons with a condition called epilepsy are today still greatly misunderstood and often subjected to social, educational and occupational discrimination that produces a far greater agony than their medical problem itself.

Not a few victims suffer the penalties of misdiagnosis, and because of their aberrant behavior are labelled retarded, incorrigible or mentally ill.

Through the ages, a number of people have reached spectacular heights of achievement despite having epilepsy. Among them are Alexander the Great, Julius Caesar, Handel, Dante, Tchaikovsky, VanGogh, Dostoyevsky and Alfred Nobel. But many other epileptics have led thwarted, tainted, sheltered lives marred by irrational laws, the rejection of others and feelings of embarrassment, shame and guilt.

Epilepsy is a symptom, not a disease. It is the result of an electrical instability of some cells in the brain, which sometimes triggers an "electrical storm" that spreads through part or all of the brain. This results in a seizure, which can take one of many forms. Most patients have only one type of seizure, but nearly a third may experience two or more types.

The so-called grand mal seizures are the most common. They typically last two to five minutes and sometimes begin with a mood change or an "aura" (strange sensations that warn of an impending attack) and an outcry. The victim may fall to the floor and lose consciousness. Muscles become rigid and then contract in a rhythmic convulsion that causes the entire body to shake violently. The victim may lose control of his bladder and bowels and stop breathing temporarily. Afterward he may feel sleepy and headachy, but usually will have no memory of the attack. There is no pain, unless the victim hurts himself during the seizure, but the dramatic attack leaves a painful impression on anyone who witnesses it.

Far less noticeable are the petit mal seizures, which occur mainly in children. There are no convulsions. Rather, there is a lapse of consciousness characterized by blank staring and a lack of responsiveness lasting about 10 to 30 seconds. Such attacks can happen many times during a day, especially when the child is sitting still, and lead to serious learning difficulties if not recognized and treated.

Both the petit and grand mal seizures involve a sudden electrical discharge through the entire brain. Other seizures, called partial, involve only certain areas of the brain and may result in staggering, purposeless movements, twitching of part of the body, mental confusion, verbal outbursts, angry attacks, lip smacking and chewing, sudden headaches or abdominal pains, visual or auditory delusions and dizziness. The seizure usually lasts a minute or two, but sometimes for several hours, during which time the victim is out of touch with his surroundings and may resist aid.

Experts estimate that a quarter to a half of all cases could be prevented. The preventive approaches include the following:

—Preventing pregnancy in teen-agers, who have an increased risk of bearing children with epilepsy.

—Immunizing children against measles, mumps and diptheria, which can sometimes cause brain damage and seizures.

—Preventing head injuries by using lap and shoulder seat belts in cars, wearing helmets while riding motorcycles, mopeds and bicycles, observing the 55-mile-an-hour speed limit and not driving under the influence of alcohol.

Another preventive involves the use of phenobarbital, a sedative drug, for a year or so in small children who have had a convulsion during a high fever and in anyone who suffers a serious head injury or undergoes brain surgery. However, some specialists believe that in children, the disadvantages of the drug's side effects may outweigh its potential benefits.

In about half of patients, the seizures can be totally eliminated by currently available treatments. In another 30 per cent, the frequency of seizures can be greatly reduced. Occasionally the condition can be "cured" — when an operable tumor or correctable chemical imbalance is the cause. But about half of children with seizures outgrow them, usually when they reach puberty.

It is far more difficult to prevent and treat the social and psychological consequences of epilepsy than the symptom itself. Some families would benefit from counselling. Most children with epilepsy can and should be educated in regular classrooms, but some teachers resist having a child in class who may have a seizure. In most cases it is not necessary to curtail a child's participation in athletics. In fact, physical activity helps to reduce the frequency of seizures.

DEAR ABBY: I am torn between my duty as a wife and my duty as a mother. I am 57 and my husband is 63. I recently received a letter from my daughter, who lives 1,200 miles from here. She said she is leaving her husband after 13 years of marriage and she wants me to come at once to stay with her kids and run her household so she can go back to work.

I don't think it's fair to leave my husband alone, but I hate to turn my daughter down, She didn't say how long she wants me to stay, but she has always been a very selfish girl and I know once she gets me there, I will have a terrible time getting away. Please help me.

TORN

DEAR TORN: Write to your daughter and tell her that if she plans to go back to work, she had better make permanent arrangements right now for running her household because your place is with your husband, and that's where you intend to stay.

DEAR ABBY: First I read the letter signed, 36 AND STILL A VIGIN, and then the one from 60 AND STILL A VIRGIN, which moves me to suggest this epitaph for both:

"Here lies the bones
Of Betty Jones
For her life held no terrors.
A virgin born
A virgin died

No hits, no runs, no errors."—CARL

DEAR ABBY: We were three girls brought up in a strictly Jewish home, so we never had ham, bacon or pork in our house. Now that we are all grown up and married, none of us observes the dietary customs, but our parents still do.

My oldest sister has a beautiful home, and when she has mama and papa over, she serves them a dairy dinner, but she always puts a big pork roast on the table for everyone else.

Mama and papa have never said anything, but I know they are hurt.

I once told my sister I thought she was out of line to put pork on the table with the folks here, and she said, "We have pork in this house, and they know it, so why be a hypocrite? Besides, in MY home I'll serve whatever I like."

I still think my sister is wrong. Or am I? — BEA

DEAR BEA: Your sister is not only wrong, she's childish, disrespectful and mean. She's trying to show contempt for the old traditions and at the same time let mama and papa know that she's her own boss now and can do as she pleases. (It's true that she can, but she doesn't have to hit them over the head with a pork roast to make her point.)

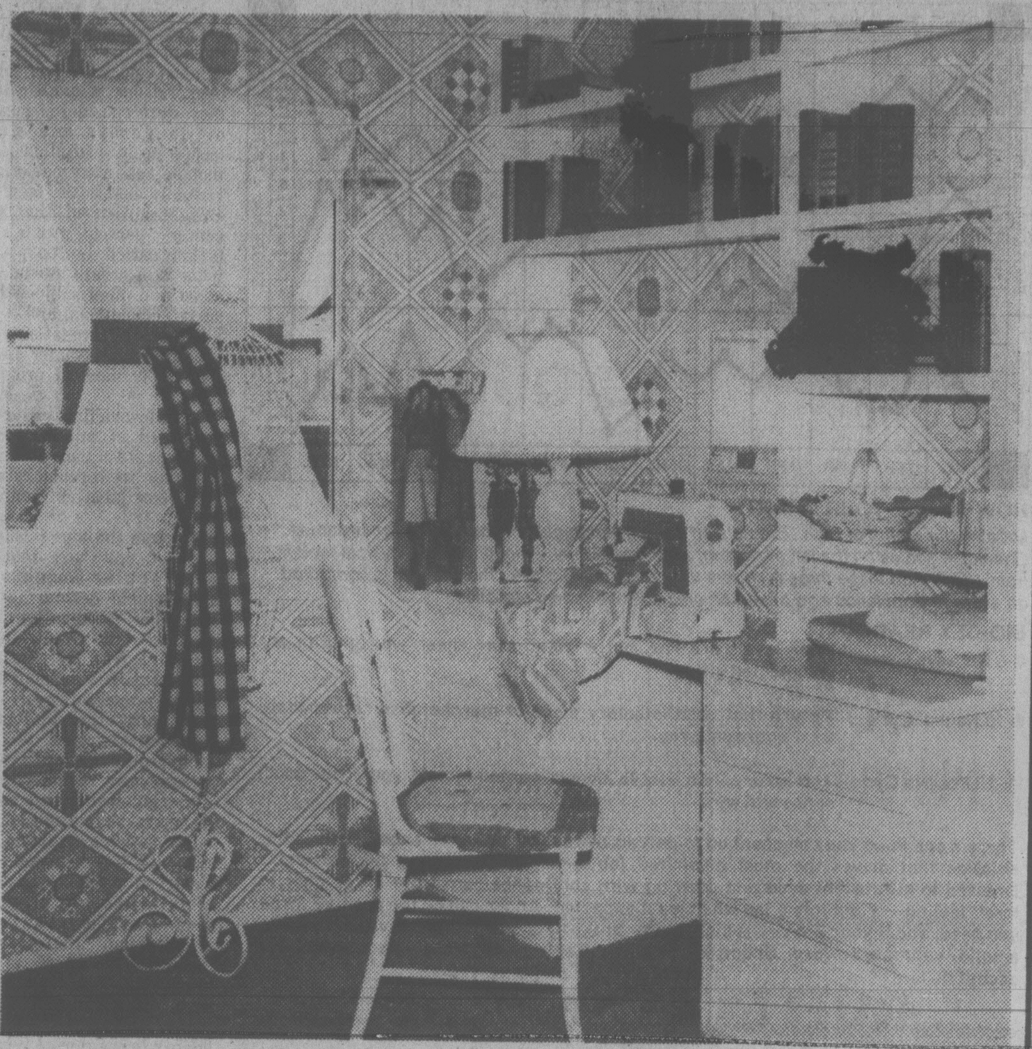
Why Not Try a Sewing Corner?

By PAULINE GRAVES

For women who sew, the ideal arrangement is a separate sewing room in which fabrics and patterns can remain in the open, ready to be worked on at any time. Unfortunately this is a luxury seldom obtainable in this era of high building costs. To get the most of one's housing investment, specialized tasks must share facilities.

The room shown here, by interior designer Carole Eichen, is a case in point. Basically the room is a study which doubles as a guest room. And it goes from a two-purpose room to three, by utilizing the corner as a sewing area. Four surrounding drawers accommodate stationery supplies plus pattern and fabrics, keeping them at the ready, but out of sight. Additional fabrics can be folded neatly and tucked into the open shelves for a bit of color. But primarily the shelves display books and plants which fit into the room's other functions. When the sewing machine is in its case, and in a closet, patterns and sewing paraphernalia out of sight, the room reverts to its "study" appearance, except for the wire figure which looks like contemporary sculpture anyway.

In fact, it isn't so much the whole room converts to another use, it is the corner. The base cabinet 68 inches long and 31 inches high, with a 21-inch wide knee space, fuctions well as a desk. And the shelves, made of 1"x10"s fill the corner nicely.



The Scramble for a New Look

BERNADINE MORRIS
New York Times

PARIS — Fashion changes because people get bored with the styles they are wearing and something comes along that catches their fancy or looks easier to live with. Designers, of course, try to hasten the process, and when they come up with something that is either pleasing or useful, they produce a new fashion.

But when their new concept promotes change for the sake of change, when it is lacking in utility, esthetics or even whimsicality, it doesn't get very far. It either dies on the runways where it makes its debut or on the racks of stores, if it survives that long.

How far the new fashions introduced by French ready-to-wear producers in almost two weeks of gargantuan shows will go is debatable. The issue will not be decided until consumers around the world get a crack at them. That will be sometime this summer, for these fall and winter clothes will be appearing in the stores when most women are concerned with what they will wear in the pool or on the tennis courts. It may be that there is a latent desire for miniskirts and padded shoulders.

Store buyers here tend to play down the importance of the miniskirts, at least for the present, except perhaps for the disco set, which is ready for anything. Two years ago Paris designers made a concerted effort to bring back knee-baring clothes and it went practically unnoticed. But this time the chief proponent — an occasional version is offered by other houses — Yves Saint Laurent. Nothing he does goes unnoticed. The way most store people see it surviving is under a tie-on longer skirt that can be removed for dancing. It then serves as a form of underwear.

Another kind of underwear that is coming out in the open is the bra, done in satin or lace and meant to be seen. Saint Laurent suggested the idea in his couture collection shown last January with a lacy black bra under a black tailored suit. In the past two weeks, it has been taken up by the likes of Valentino (from Rome), Hanae Mori (from Tokyo) and Castelbajac (from Paris). Whether women will take to running around in their bras at night remains to be seen.

The major change in shape in the collections is the shoulder line, now broadened and padded. The continuing interest in old movies from the 1940's is suspected of contributing, at least subliminally, to the emphasis on big shoulders. It was during the Second World War that padded shoulders last flourished. This has also contributed to the military look, which is not as strong in Paris as in Milan.

Curiously, the same people who object to big shoulders are the ones who protested soft, unconstructed clothes when they began emerging from designing rooms a few years back.

There are many people, in and out of the fashion business, who object to change on principle and only give in when it has become so widely accepted that it has become familiar. Then they get ready to put down the next change.

There is nothing essentially evil about padded shoulders. Fashion mannequins are chosen as much for the natural breadth of their shoulders as for their height. Clothes tend to look better on women with wide shoulders than on those with narrow ones.

It is only when the padding becomes too mammoth, when the proportions are better suited to a quarterback than an office worker, that it becomes absurd. And, of course, if you add a padded coat to a padded jacket over a padded blouse, the effect can be grotesque.

MEDICAL AIDES HELP FILL GAP

HALIFAX (CP) — Nations with increased demands on health services should turn from institutional medicine and direct more effort at para-medics, a Southeast Asian medical specialist said here.

"The general response from our medical community has been rather negative toward incorporating the services of these traditional practioners into our national health delivery system," Dr. Somboon Vachrotai, director-general of the department of health in Thailand said.

The comment was contained in a speech prepared for the Second International Congress of the World Federation of Public Health Associations.

"This is a great mistake, for a truly innovative government health service would not shy away from utilizing any element or individual which could improve the accessibility and acceptability of its services," he said.

In Thailand the government has trained paramedics in the basics of child birth, herbs and injections of various medicines.

Rural health programs have greatly benefited from this collaboration, he said.

BIKERS OBJECT

COPENHAGEN (AFP) — Thousands of cyclists tied up traffic in Danish cities Saturday to demand better driving conditions for bicycle riders. About 10,000 demonstrators on bicycles converged on the parliament building in Copenhagen, once a city of cyclists until the post-war car boom drove them off the streets.

Clark Lauds Ryan's Tax Stand

MONTREAL (CP) — The Trudeau government's planned sales-tax rebate "gave the PQistes a golden issue" to promote separatism, says Tory leader Joe Clark.

"But the unanimous defence of provincial rights shown by all the Quebec political parties has prevented (Premier Rene) Levesque from using the weapon on Trudeau gave him to destroy the federal ideal," Clark told about 1,000 supporters at a fund-raising dinner.

He praised Claude Ryan and the provincial Liberals for having spoken out against the federal proposal to bypass the Quebec government and mail cheques of up to $85 to taxpayers in the province.

"If the Liberals of Mr. Ryan had been as silent in defence of provincial rights as the federal Liberals, that would have been a victory for Rene Levesque."

Ryan had proposed that the dispute over how Quebec should be compensated for its selective sales-tax reductions be ended by either a federal transfer to Quebec of $225 million or a reduction of federal income taxes to allow a similar amount to be collected in provincial taxes.

Clark said this suggestion was acceptable but Chretien had already rejected it.

The rise of separatism in Quebec is a direct consequence of the Trudeau government's constant disregard for provincial rights, the Tory leader said.

Clark charged that Prime Minister Trudeau "acts as if he is the only holder of political authority, as if the provincial premiers are nothing but subordinates and not equal partners."

PQ RALLY CELEBRATES RAISING OF $2 MILLION

QUEBEC (CP) — Several thousand Parti Quebecois supporters—Premier Rene Levesque among them—gathered in the Quebec Coliseum Saturday night to celebrate the 10th annual PQ campaign for funds, which brought in the reported sum of $2,059,950.

The mood was one of rejoicing: The campaign surpassed the objective $1.3 million by 39 per cent.

Speaking to party workers and faithful, Levesque said it was "a success which went beyond all our hopes." But it was also a political success "because of its mobilizing effect."

"We are gathered here not only for an evening of rejoicing but especially for an evening of merited pride," he said. "Once again we have the proof that Quebecers are capable of soliciting themselves before trying to solicit others."

NO GOODWILL TO QUE.- NDP

MONTREAL (CP) — The federal government's stand on the sales tax dispute with Quebec displays an "almost pathological refusal to see anything good in the (Parti Quebecois) government," says New Democratic Party leader Ed Broadbent.

Addressing a meeting of the National Congress of Italian Canadians here Saturday, Broadbent said the federal Liberals have shown flexibility in their sales tax negotiations with other provinces, but not with Quebec.

"For example, they gave the Atlantic provinces more money than the rest, but they showed no goodwill toward Quebec," the NDP leader said.

Broadbent said the dispute had become a personality clash—"at least on the federal side"—and that Ottawa should transfer the money directly into the provincial treasury.

The dispute began when Quebec refused to go along with a proposal in the last federal budget that the provinces cut all sales taxes in return for federal compensation.

Experts Devising Clean-Up Plans

OTTAWA (CP) - For the second time in a month, the quality of drinking water becomes the subject of a conference here attended by international experts.

Representatives of the International Organization for Standardization (ISO) are meeting this week to prepare international standards in such areas as chemical and bacteria content in water.

Canadian scientists long-concerned about the environmental effects of water pollution, are beginning to focus on the quality of drinking water.

Already many public beaches contaminated by unacceptable levels of bacteria have been closed. Fish from some inland waters are unfit for consumption.

Even nursing mothers living in the Great Lakes area have been warned to consult their physicians before breast-feeding because toxic chemical pollutants (polychlorinated biphenyls) discharged into the lakes have been found in human milk.

The fact is that the water used for sewage disposal, swimming and fishing is the same water used for drinking, says a University of Ottawa microbiologist.

"And the least we could do is to clean it up," said Dr. Syed Sattar in a recent interview.

Dr. A.B. Morrison, head of the federal health protection branch, said more than 600 organic chemicals have been found in water samples.

And Dr. Sattar, who has already isolated five strains of polio in the Ottawa River system, is completing a more intensive study on viruses in tap water.

"One can live without beaches, there's a certain amount of inconvenience in that," Dr. Sattar said. "But if the quality of drinking water deteriorates to the point where it begins to show harmful effects, then you've had it."

Environment Minister Len Marchand told MPs last week that in spite of a $4.3 million federal-provincial study on Quebec water pollution, the obvious solution is to stop dumping raw sewage into the water.

"We have got to get down to work and start building proper sewage treatment facilities," he told a Commons committee meeting.

"After all, water treatment systems are not fool-proof. But we're not just talking about chemical treatment."

In fact, the chemical used to purify drinking water may cause more harmful chemicals than it kills.

Rock Kills Seven

RECIFE, Brazil (Reuter) — Seven persons were killed and 15 injured when a 1,320-pound rock rolled off a speeding truck and crashed through the windshield of a bus, police said Sunday. The accident occurred on the road to Cabo, a municipality 33 kilometres from Recife.

Dud Eggs Laid By Yukon Polly II

CARCROSS, Yukon (CP) — The young successor to the oldest, meanest, ugliest bird in the Yukon is firing duds.

Yukon Polly II, the four-year-old successor to the self-styled "World Famous Carcross Parrot" which was given a state funeral here when it died five years ago, has laid two eggs in recent weeks.

Dorothy Hopcott, owner of the Caribou Hotel in this tiny southern Yukon settlement, and who is already up to her fetlocks in feathered friends, had hoped to increase the size of her burgeoning parrot flock substantially.

Both eggs, however, were unfertilized, much to the chagrin of a male parrot named Scarlet O'Hara, who watched the whole process in a helpless state of ornithological frustration from the confines of his separate cage in the hotel beer parlor.

"She didn't even try to hatch it," said hotel employee Beverly Bear. "All she did was squawk a lot more. Some mother."

Bear said the eggs were too small to eat, only about 2.5 centimetres long. "I glued the broken one back together, so all we've got out of it so far is two souvenirs."

If It's Warm, Sow the Corn

This just might be the day to sow sweet corn. The indefinite statement is due to the need of corn seeds for a warm soil and warm sunshine to start growth.

Sweet corn is a chancey crop on the cool coast, yet is such a favorite with prairie folks and those from further east that the chance is worth taking.

From experience in sometimes catching a few fine pickings, I suggest sowing about three dozen seeds now, leaving space nearby for three dozen to be sown when the first sowing is up to about three inches.

A final larger sowing can be put in when conditions should be near perfect, about July 14. This should have full advantage of high summer weather and be ready for using in early September.

If this plan appeals to you, make notes of the dates on your garden calendar for you won't want to miss the opportunity of enjoying this delectable food that is as Canadian as pumpkin pie.

Unlike pumpkin however which keeps well for many weeks when cut from the vine, the delicate sweet flavor of corn on the cob is realized only when the pot of water is put to boil before the cobs are detached from the plants. Stripping off the husks takes only minutes in the garden by the compost heap; there is no washing, no further preparation. No hands but your own touch the cobs.

Just have a good grade of margarine and the salt shaker on the table. This is one of the rare times to use a little salt at table; don't add it to the water when cooking the corn, it toughens the kernels.

Now for a few tips for new gardeners on the sowing of the sweet corn seeds.

The corn must be juicy with its milk, so the soil needs to be able to hold moisture at the roots without constant watering. Humus from a mixture of old compost, old cow or horse manure, or from cut bracken or grass — these make a fine spongy base that can be saturated with water before sowing the seeds. Sprinkle the surface to keep it damp until germination; then deeper watering will be needed occasionally to soak the humus below.

Each small plot for sweet corn sowing should hold at least three rows in a close block. Leave walking space between the rows for getting a close look at cobs before picking. Seeds can be sown fairly close together in a row — about 12 inches is not too close.

The block plan is used because wind pollination is needed from the top flower spikes to the cob tassels lower on the plants. And the pollen must be blown from one plant to the others by whatever breeze happens to be around. Locally that can be from any direction during summer weeks, as long-time gardeners are aware.

A few seeds and often may be the key to having several feeds of sweet corn on the cob, fresh from the plants, and even to having a few to freeze if you like them that way.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room etc., for rent, or property for sale: start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement.

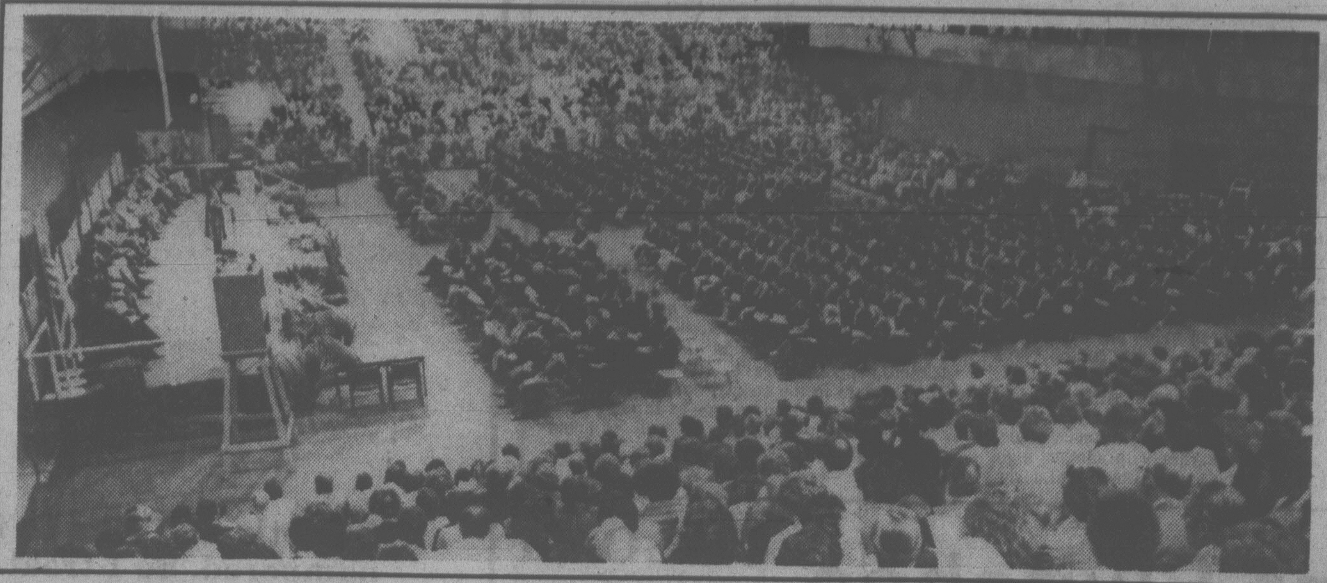
3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. for you daily, Monday through Friday: 8:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Don't allow the reader to speculate.



GRADUATION DAY at the University of Victoria Saturday afternoon was attended by more than 1,000 graduates, friends and relatives. It was UVic's 15th annual convocation ceremony, and this year the university awarded 1,172 degrees, including degrees in the new faculties of law, nursing and social work.

SONGSTERS HONORED

Jay Galbraith, a founding member of the City of Gardens Chapter, Sweet Adelines, Inc., was made a life member of the organization at an installation dinner held recently.

Irene Moore was awarded the Sweet Adeline of the year trophy and Norma Alexander, the chapter's new musical director, received the director's pin.

CZ Plants 40 Millionth

The ceremony marked the fact the forest company has been planting trees for 35 years, since 1943, and their estimate is that the total now is 40 million.

Because Douglas firs take about 80 years to grow (at least 60 years under the best possible conditions) none of the planted trees have yet been harvested.

Waterland emphasized that point when he told the youngsters they would be grandparents before the trees being planted this week would be old enough to be turned into lumber.

Waterland and the press were flown to nearby Nanaimo Lakes in helicopters and seaplanes for the event.

Crown Zellerbach chairman Tom Rust, in a brief speech atop Black Jack Ridge, said the company would pursue its tree-planting program vigorously.

Rust also said the company supports most of the changes planned by Waterlandin the Forest Act.

The idea of 25-year tree farm licences reviewed every 10 years is welcome, Rust said.

Waterland did not make a speech in reply. He grabbed a shovel and dug a hole for the 40 million tree and then, in a spontaneous act, invited the grade one youngsters to help him plant it.

FBI Eyed King Successor

Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The FBI apparently worked with a black leader in its long undercover campaign to discredit the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., according to newly disclosed FBI documents.

The tentative scheming was disclosed in one of a series of memos from the "official and confidential" files of late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover. The Centre for National Security Studies obtained them under the Freedom of Information Act.

Senate investigators have previously revealed that the FBI's campaign against King included a proposal to groom a new "national Negro leader" to take his place.

But in making that discovery some years ago, the Senate intelligence committee also said it had contacted the proposed successor to King only to be told that "he was not aware of the FBI's plans for him nor of any attempts by the FBI to promote him as a civil rights leader."

The newly declassified FBI memo suggests otherwise, although it is far from conclusive. The name of the man the FBI had secretly anointed has never been made public. In addition, the FBI deleted the name of the black leader from the memo obtained by the centre.

Dated Dec. 1, 1964, and addressed to late FBI assistant director William C. Sullivan, the memo alludes to a discussion the anonymous leader had had a few days earlier with another high-ranking FBI official, Cartha "Deke" DeLoach.

"(Deleted) stated to DeLoach that he was faced with the difficult problem of taking steps to remove King from the national picture," the FBI memo said. "He indicates in his comments a lack of confidence that he, alone, could be successful."

As a consequence, the memo suggested DeLoach "have a further discussion with (deleted) in connection with the problem of the removal of King from the national scene." DeLoach, it was added, could also suggest that (deleted) might desire to call a meeting of Negro leaders in the country including, among others, civil rights leaders such as James Farmer and A. Philip Randolph as well as some prominent black judges, ministers and public officials.

Mesrine Hunt Switches To Paris

PARIS (AP) — Police shifted their hunt for France's most-wanted criminal to the Paris area today after he apparently slipped through their dragnet in western France during the weekend.

Jacques Mesrine, a brazen and clever convict who has escaped from jails in Canada and France, forced a couple to drive him and a companion from the Normandy area to a crossroads near Versailles about 24 kilometres southwest of the capital, a police spokesman said.

Mesrine released the couple unharmed about 11 a.m. Sunday, but they waited, apparently as instructed by him, until 10 p.m. before notifying police, the spokesman said.

Police say Mesrine was involved in a daring holdup of the Deauville Casino Friday night. He produced a justice ministry identity card in order to meet the casino director, then ordered him to hand over the equivalent of $14,000.

The police said Mesrine stole the card during his escape from Sante prison in Paris on May 8 along with Francois Besse, another long-term prisoner. A third man who tried to escape was shot and killed by prison guards.

Mesrine escaped from jail in Montreal in 1972 where he was serving a 10-year jail term for the abduction of a Quebec industrialist.

He is also wanted in Canada in connection with the slayings of two Quebec game wardens. Police say the game wardens were shot to death while attempting to capture Mesrine.

Casino Making Killing

ATLANTIC CITY (UPI) — The long lines outside the U.S. East Coast's first gambling hall during the Memorial Day weekend and its awesome gross receipts make local merchants confident they will hit the jackpot.

"It is very definitely going to help us," said Lawrence Alper, an operating partner of the Steel Pier, an amusement pier on the Boardwalk as the crowds filed by Sunday on their way to the Resorts International Hotel-Casino.

An estimated 150,000 casino visitors have plunked down a lot of money at the gaming tables since the casino opened on Friday.

Resorts officials were more cautious, putting the take in the region of $250,000 a day.

Local merchants say the visitors aren't confining their spending to the chrome slot machines, the colorful roulette wheels, the bright green gaming tables and the huge Big 6 Wheels.

"It has increased my business maybe 40 per cent already," said William Rowan, owner of Alan's Cigar Store.

Computer Blows Race

Times Staff

So much for technology.

The Swiftsure and Juan de Fuca race committee went completely computerized this year only to find the machine spilled out the wrong winner.

Late Sunday the computer had Outrageous, a 50-foot sloop belonging to Ted Burns of the Bremerton, Wash., Yacht Club taking the Swiftsure Trophy as over-all winner among Internatiomal Offshore Rule boats racing in the 136.2-mile classic.

A recheck today, however, revealed that although Outrageous wins the Ocean Cement Trophy for first boat in division 1 to cross the finish line near the Ogden Point breakwater at 10:05 a.m. Sunday, the big winner is Bill Buchan's Sachem of Seattle's Corinthian Yacht Club.

Buchan, a Swiftsure veteran, crossed the finish line at 2:01 p.m. Sunday. Sachem is one of 18 three-quarter tonners who will be competing in the world championships that begin at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club this week.

The first boat to complete the race to the Swiftsure Bank and back was Fritz Johnson's 73-foot sloop, Windward Passage, of the New York Yacht Club. She completed the race at 8:16 a.m., winning the City of Victoria Trophy for first boat to finish.

The first boat to round the Swiftsure mark was Drifter, a 69-foot sloop out of the Lahaina Yacht Club, raced by Ron Hart and Dick Warren. She rounded at 10:49 p.m. Saturday, followed by Windward Passage six minutes later and by Doug Fryer's 67-foot sloop Merlin of the Seattle Yacht Club at 11:19 p.m.

Late Sunday afternoon brisk westerlies were bringing the remainder of the 373 Swiftsure and Juan de Fuca boats home in style, spinnakers, bloopers and every sail they could raise flying.

Strong gusts caused many a near knockdown as the boats raced through the tidal waters of Race Passage and the gale-force winds took their toll in both races. A host of boats withdrew either because of broken gear, sea sickness or other causes. One of the first boats to be knocked out of the race was Scott Schock's Red Onion, who lost her mast shortly after her start.

Other early casualties were G. Middleton's Shaman of CYC, who broke her rudder, and Tillicum and Tumbo, belonging to H.J. Ricketts of CYC and Larry Straith of the

SECRET HUDDLE

NATO Eying Red Threat

Times News Services

WASHINGTON — A diplomatic extravaganza opens in Washington this week as Western leaders, including Prime Minister Trudeau, ponder ways to counter growing Warsaw Pact armies — now about twice as strong conventionally as the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Fourteen heads of government — with French President Valery Giscard D'Estaing as usual the only notable absentee — will meet at the U.S. state department for secret sessions.

President Carter will address the opening session of the Tuesday. The delegations then will hold two days of closed-door meetings to plan long-range strategy for dealing with what has been a concerted buildup of Soviet-led Warsaw Pact forces.

Wrapped in this debate is bound to be a discussion of the controversial neutron weapon which some NATO members want and others don't.

Canada has not yet said whether this country opposes producing and deploying the weapon.

However, Trudeau indicated at the special UN session on disarmament last week the aim of nuclear weapons control should be to smother development of devices such as the neutron bomb in the laboratory.

The meeting will consider 117 major recommendations put together over the last eight months by 10 special committees.

Officials said that one of the most important elements in the report, involves a 15-year program for an integrated allied air defence.

Other aspects of the report cover ways to improve the readiness of NATO forces, to speed the rate at which reinforcements can be deployed, and to enhance maritime capabilities, communications and logistic co-ordination.

In manpower and conventional weaponry, in Central Europe, the most critical area, the NATO forces are arrayed against armies whose superiority has been steadily growing.

Among other things, NATO intelligence and U.S. estimates show that:

—More than 580,000 combat-ready troops, about 310,000 from the Soviet Union, are deployed in East Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary, compared with 283,000 for NATO.

—There are 15,500 tanks on the Warsaw Pact side against 6,000 for NATO.

—The Warsaw Pact has 4,000 tactical combat aircraft compared with about 2,000 for NATO.

—In the event of an attack, the Warsaw Pact could deploy 180 divisions as reinforcements. NATO countries could supply 71.

The conversion of the Soviet Union's tactical air force from a largely defensive to a largely offensive ground attack role also has raised con-

AIR CANADA PLAYS FAIRY GODFATHER

FLIN FLON, Man. (TNS) — A Scottish bride's wedding day tears turned to laughter when an Air Canada captain decided to play fairy godfather.

It happened on Saturday when the unidentified pilot noticed Fiona Johnston, 19, still in her wedding dress, sobbing in the observation lounge of Glasgow airport. She was saying goodbye to her husband of a few hours, 23-year-old David, who works in Flin Flon and was due back at work today. Unfortunately, Fiona's immigration paperwork had not been completed.

The pilot delayed the flight while strings were pulled to see if Fiona could be cleared for a flying honeymoon visit to Canada with her new hubby. She could be.

Later, passengers aboard the flight passed the hat and collected $200 in various currencies as a wedding present for Fiona and David.

'Tots Held In Slavery'

LONDON (Reuter) — Small children in Morocco are working up to 72 hours a week for little or no pay to make carpets for export to Canada and other foreign markets, the Anti-Slavery Society said in a report published today.

A mission was sent to Morocco by the London-based human rights organization to investigate reports that girls as young as seven were being used as cheap labor to fuel Morocco's booming exports of carpets to Canada, the United States, West Germany, the Netherlands, Sweden, France, and Belgium.

The mission visited 79 private factories in 17 Moroccan cities and towns.

Its report said conditions in private factories and workshops were generally poor and many of the children looked under-nourished and overworked. By contrast, conditions in the government-owned workshops were much better, it said.

The report said most of the child workers under 12 in the private sector were classed as apprentices and paid little or nothing for long hours of labor. Those who were paid received enough money to buy a loaf of bread evey day.

The organization called on the Moroccan government to extend its control over private factories to bring them up to at least the better standards existing in state factories.

The Anti-Slavery Society, founded in 1839, works for the eradication of slavery, servile forced labor and other violations of human rights. It has consultative status with the UN Economic and Social Council.

35 Flags Ripped In 'Ritual'

Nearly all the flags decorating the B.C. Steamships terminal were ripped down Saturday night in what seems to be a Switftsure ritual.

Thirty-five Canadian ensigns, provincial and Cook bicentennial flags disappeared from brackets holding them.

"It happened Saturday night, the same as last year. Does that tell you anything?" said a disgusted steamship spokesman.

Meanwhile at the legislature, someone made off with the largest flag in the city, the Canadian flag from the top of the main flagpole.

Political Games Played With Zaire Death Toll

By DAVID B. OTTAWAY
The Washington Post

KINSHASA, Zaire — As the confusion surrounding the rebel seizure of Kolwezi slowly subsides, the picture of what really happened in that now half-empty mining town, who executed whom and how many died is becoming clearer.

It appears that fewer were killed than previous reports indicated.

(All but about 150 of the French troops who parachuted into Shaba province to drive Katangan rebels from Kolwezi and rescue foreigners have left the battle-scarred copper-mining town and turned the area over to the Zaire army).

The initial avalanche of conflicting reports from Europeans fleeing, French and Belgian military sources, and Zairian authorities made accurate reporting extremely difficult.

In retrospect, it seems some of the initial reports from French and Zairian sources of whites being massacred were deliberately exaggerated to gain quick Western public sympathy for the French-Belgian rescue mission of more than 2,000 Europeans in the town.

The first impression was of a systematic killing of whites by the rebels, most of the deaths occurring at three or four mass execution sites.

It now appears most of the killing was random and arbitrary, that the rebels and Zairian army soldiers participated at different times in helping and executing Europeans and that the majority of the victims, white and black, died singly or in small groups.

Fench military sources in Kolwezi say captured rebel documents included no orders to kill Europeans, though it is possible the licence to do so came when it was learned French Legionnaires were on their way to Kolwezi.

As for the total number of Europeans and Zairians who perished during the six-day siege, the hunt for bodies now being conducted by the International Committee of the Red Cross and Belgian and French medical teams so far does not bear out the initial high estimates.

The Red Cross figures for bodies picked up in and around the town between Tuesday and Friday are 56 Zairian troops, 111 black African civilians, and 95 Europeans, making a total of 262 confirmed deaths.

A seven-man Belgian medical team counted only 64 Europeans, of which it was able to identify 23. A French consular officer who visited Kolwezi Thursday gave the figure of 123 confirmed white deaths.

All three figures are significantly below the official French government estimate of 200 put out at midweek.

While the truth remains hazy, there are several clear examples of exaggerated and probably deliberately planted figures given out either by Zairian or French authorities to create the impression the rebels carried out mass executions of Europeans.

The first reports of any such killings came from the Zairian government on May 19, the day French landed on Kolwezi, saying the bodies of

Hisses, Boos By Pensioners

VANCOUVER (CP) — Liberal leader Gordon Gibson and Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm were hissed and booed Sunday by senior citizens at a meeting sponsored by Pensioners For Action.

Adding to the chagrin of the 250 elderly listeners was the absence of NDP leader Dave Barrett. An hour before the start of the meeting he announced he couldn't make it and was replaced by Rosemary Brown, NDP human resources critic.

"I came expecting to hear Dave Barrett — most people did and they're annoyed that he's not here," said one woman.

Equally vying for the audience's attention was a trip for two to Reno and lottery tickets which were raffled off at the end of the meeting.

"To tell you the truth, half these people would never come if we didn't entice them with door prizes," said one organizer.

The meeting was billed as the first in what is expected to be a series of discussions on topics of interest to the elderly and Canadians in general.

JOHANNESBURG (CP) — A high-quality diamond the size of a matchbox and worth an estimated $12 million — more than any other gem in modern history — has been found at the Cullinan mine near Pretoria.

A spokesman for de Beers mines said today that the 353.9-carat gem, named Premier Rose, was mined two months ago and sold to a Johannesburg cutter for an undisclosed sum.

For security reasons the identity of thre gem's buyer was being strictly withhheld.

DETECTIVE HIT IN BANK BATTLE

WEST VANCOUVER (CP) — A police detective shot in a gunfight with a bank robber said Sunday the shootout began after a customer threw an ashtray at the robber.

Det. Laurence Mortimer, 56, was hit three times in the Saturday gun battle—once on each hand and once through the neck.

Mortimer said he had been showing the bank's assistant manager a picture of a fraud suspect when he saw the robber, who was carrying a long-barrelled .22-calibre pistol.

"I was going to wait until he got out and tackle him outside," said Mortimer.

Then a 65-year-old customer standing at the counter threw the ashtray, said Mortimer, hitting the gunman on the temple.

"He swung around with the gun," Mortimer said. "I thought he was going to blow the guy away."

Then the shooting started.

B.C.: Crime Capital of Canada

VANCOUVER (CP) — Crime in Canada follows an almost unchanging pattern — the farther west one goes, the higher the crime rate, according to a statistical profile of national criminal activity prepared by a Simon Fraser University criminologist.

Dr. Ezzat A. Fattah, 48, chairman of the university's 15-member criminology faculty, says British Columbia has consistently led the nation in every kind of criminal activity, with the exception of robbery, since Statistics Canada began compiling comprehensive crime data in 1962.

"We found this was a very consistent pattern with only one exception, the catgory of robbery, where some years Quebec holds the lead and in other years B.C.," Egyptian-born Fattah said. "Otherwise the trend is consistent."

He compiled rates — based on reported and recorded crimes, rather than court convictions — for every type of crime on a basic unit of 100,000 population in three broad categories: crimes of violence; property offences and miscellaneous crimes such as prostitution, gambling, drug offences, possession of stolen property and weapons; and non-violent sex offences.

Attorney-General Garde Gardom today pointed out Fattah based his figures on three-year-old statistics. He said the crime rate has leveled off in recent years.

The formation of the Co-ordinated Law Enforcement Unit and an over-all increase in the number of police have been important factors in the tapering off, he said.

Gardom is looking to the health ministry's compulsory heroin treatment program to have a significant impact on drug related crimes, estimated to be responsible for 60 per cent of all crime.

The attorney-general continues to press Ottawa for more help controlling the heroin problem. Gardon says B.C. suffers 60 per cent of the heroin problem in Canada but received only a fraction of the federal heroin control aid.

Statistics Canada stopped preparing separate figures for the top 12 metropolitan areas in 1972, but at that time, Fattah says, Vancouver was clearly the most crime-ridden city in the country and he has no reason to believe that situation has changed.

Edmonton and Calgary were ranked second and third in the study, followed by Windsor, Ont. — across the border from Detroit, Mich., which leads the United States in murders.

Among his other findings:

—the national crime rate has gone up 152 per cent in the 14-year period. Crimes of violence have increased 194.7 per cent and property offences have gone up 140.8 per cent.

—violent crimes constitute only eight per cent of Canada's criminal activity. Sixty-seven per cent are property offences and the remainder are victimless crimes like prostitution and drug possession.

—drug crimes have rocketed from 770 offences in 1962 to 50,081 in 1975. In B.C., the number shot from 188 in 1962 to 9,790 in 1975.

—the incidence rate of violent crime nationally was 554.3 per 100,000 in 1975, but in B.C., the rate was 804.3. Comparable rates for property crimes were 4,494.7 and 6,725.2 respectively.

—the national murder rate in 1975 was 3.1 per 100,000 compared with 3.8 in B.C. The murder rate increased 121 per cent nationally in the 14-year period.

Princess Patricia's Last Summer

Times Staff

Thirty years after she entered Esquimalt after a 9,626-mile maiden voyage from Scotland's Clydeside, Canadian Pacific's Princess Patricia is due to go out of service this year.

Regional manager Bob Ferguson of Vancouver says she will be making her last run from Vancouver to Alaska on Sept. 28. When she ties up in the Mainland city on Oct. 6 her days with the Canadian Pacific will be over.

The Princess Patricia's demise means there will no longer be a Canadian flag vessel on the Alaska cruise circuit.

Ferguson says the main reason the 320-passenger vessel is being taken out of service is new regulations which will be enforced by the U.S. Coast Guard in 1979 for vessels travelling in American waters.

"By the end of 1979 the ship will have to meet new regulations requiring self-contained sewage treatment. Her revenue would not cover the huge investment involved to do that job," Ferguson said.

Asked if there was a possibility the ship could be used on runs in Canadiam waters, Ferguson said it is "possible but not likely."

He would not say whether the vessel had been losing money in the past few years but conceded returns had been borderline.

Whether the Princess Patricia should be put up for sale has not yet been decided.

She is the sister ship of the Princess Marguerite, which was bought by the former NDP government in March, 1975.

Originally intended as a day vessel, the Princess Patricia plied the Vancouver-Victoria-Seattle run and was later used on the Nanaimo-Vancouver crossing.

After a refit in which more staterooms were added to her original 50, she assumed the role of cruise ship, running between Canada and Mexico.

Her Alaska runs began in 1963.

The only other Canadian flag vessel used on the Alaska circuit was the Canadian National's Prince George. She was to have completed her Alaskan cruises in 1975 but a $100,000 fire took her out of service.

Built in Victoria in 1947, the Prince George was bought by the provincial government in 1975 for $230,000 and 28 acres of crown land at Prince George, valued at $70,000.

The succeeding Social Credit government dismissed the NDP's plans to refurbish her and use her on the B.C. coast, selling her to Wong Brothers of Nanaimo for $320,000 in 1976.

By a Little Creek, Ancient Magic

EXCEPT WHEN A WINTER freshet turns them into brawling torrents, the little creeks north and south of our house call no attention to themselves. Too humble to merit the dignity of bridges, they slip under the highway through culverts, and so on down to the sea.

By local report, which I have yet to check out, the twin creeks are branches of the same flow, which originates in a swampy area of beaver dams and cuttings a few miles inland. Their diminutive size belies their importance. They are nursery streams for salmon, and each harbors a transient population of trout.

These trout are small — much too small to warrant the attention of any serious fisherman. But a while ago we fell to thinking how nice a few of them would be in a pan with their crisp tails turned up, and planned an expedition.

Such creeks are not fly fisherman's water. The cover through which they tunnel their way is too dense, and their pools too confined for casting. If they are to be fished, it must be done boy-style, with a short line and a worm.

Even on a dry and sunny day, finding worms posed no problem. As an aid to gardening, we maintain a compost, and its rich, damp soil makes it an angleworm's paradise.

I sank a spade in it and turned up a chewy black clump. It was seamed pink with large and super-lively worms — more than enough for our needs in that one generous spadeful. Win gathered them into a can with earth and a little damp moss to keep them frisky. Then we rigged our rods, turned our backs on the sharp salt sea by which we live, and set out for Stories Creek over a network of subdivision roads.

There on the inland side of the highway, we passed from spring to early summer. On our place, there is no lushness of growth — the cooling effect of saltwater guarantees that.

But when we traded the subdivision fringe for the creek-bordering woods, we were at once swallowed into warm and leafy jungle. We pushed our way through a head-high opulence of salmonberry, guided by the whisper of running water.

Before were we ready for it, there ran the creek, slipping and sliding past a grey-trunked alder to ruffle across a tiny gravel bar that deflected its flow against the far bank. That glide, dark and all of two feet deep, had a properly trouty look about it.

"Want to give it a try?" I asked.

Win helped herself to an agile worm from the can. She threaded it without compunction to a hook at the end of a tag of thin nylon leader. Then she poked her rod-tip through the crowding greenery that overhung the creek.

We were enclosed in a green and golden world, its sounds the murmur of water and the subdued call of a bird in a thicket. Time had no meaning here. That belonged in the outside world, where people had work to do and appointments to keep and responsibilities to carry. Here, for a while, we were free to soak in one of life's older and more curative magics.

"Got one!"

A bright-sparkling troutlet dangled in an arch of greenery, flipping at the end of Win's line. But it was too short by an inch: a mere 7-incher. We turned it back perhaps with wariness learned, into the creek.

Our lunch sandwiches hadn't fared too well in my jacket pocket, but we ate with good appetite, leaning against a massive alder trunk with the creek chuckling through its freshet-exposed roots. Then we returned to our fishing, although not with very serious intent.

A myriad of little trout haunted the runs and pools. But the eight and nine-inch monsters we'd hoped to find still stubbornly eluded us.

We worked our way through the crowding growth to a larger, deeper pool. I drifted a worm down it . . . felt a brisk tug . . . and tightened into a fish which must sure have been a 10-inch leviathan. The hook didn't engage. The trout went free, taking my worm with him.

By way of compensation, we discovered a profusion of wildflowers, including chocolate lilies, and a wonderful sending of ladyslippers.

A rewarding day, and one that we like to remember, even though we came home from it with never a trout to sizzle.

Redesign Square, Province Asks

Bastion Square should be re-designed at Wharf Street in order to encourage a greater flow of pedestrian traffic to the waterfront, the provincial government said today.

In a letter to city council's planning committee George Giles, the associate deputy minister of recreation and conservation, said pedestrian links between the square and the former Reid site on the Inner Harbor must be vastly improved.

The province plans to develop the Reid location but first wants to ensure the public will have easy access, especially those on foot coming through Bastion Square.

Reid's letter contained little on what the government plans to build on the property but he did say it would include walkways, a public area and retail space, including room for a food facility.

He said the development "is intended to attract and serve the people on the waterfront and also to anchor and reinforce the Old Town and its commercial base."

"The scale of our project, which is primarily to provide a public amenity and not necessarily to provide an economic return is, we believe, inhibited by the present design of Bastion Square," Giles said.

He said the square is designed as a cul-de-sac, inhibiting rather than promoting a flow-through of pedestrian traffic.

Giles said the Wharf Street end should be changed to focus on an inviting access to the street and Inner Harbor below.

He added that the province would be prepared to underwrite the design and reconstruction costs.

Giles' proposal will be dealt with by council's planning committee in a meeting Tuesday morning.

$50,000 Blaze Likely Arson

Suspicion of arson was under investigation today following a $55,000 fire in the Yarrow building Saturday.

Victoria deputy fire chief Mike Belton said investigators suspect arson but had nothing definite on the cause.

Firefighters answering the alarm at 11 a.m. had difficulty locating the source of smoke that was coming from the first and second floors until fire was discovered in a basement room of McGill and Orme druggists.

The blaze set off a mixture of irritating and toxic fumes from a quantity of hydrochloric, muriatic, sulphuric and nitric acids. Choloroform and hydrogen peroxide was stored there. Several firemen complained of severe headache and were treated with oxygen and eyewash.

Two of the half-dozen men affected were released from duty.

Smoke, fire and water damage to the building was estimated at $5,000 and to stock and contents $50,000, including the pharmacy and Elsie's Gift Shop adjoining.

McKINLEY CLIMBED

Former Victoria resident Bob Bowman was part of an expedition that has completed a climb of Mount McKinley, the highest point on the North American continent.

Bowman, 27, who was born and raised in Victoria and now lives in Vancouver, is on his way home from Alaska, his father, Bill Bowman, said today.

The expedition left Seattle May 6 and reached the ice-covered summit of the 20,320-foot mountain 16 days later. It was one of the earliest ascents of McKinley. Most climbs take place later in the summer.

MOLESTER SOUGHT

Two 12-year-old girls told police Saturday they ran from a man they said was molesting them in a vacant lot near Clarke and West Saanich Road.

He was described as being about 25 years old, five-feet-eight, with reddish blond shoulder-length hair and moustache, bloodshot blue eyes and yellow teeth, and wearing blue jeans, white T-shirt and green quilted vest.

Siphoners Nabbed

The two, aged 19 and 21 and both from the Prince Rupert area, apparently were siphoning fuel from a truck on Lulie Street at 11:22 p.m. They were to be charged with theft in provincial court today.

Thomas Colin Andrews of no fixed address was charged this morning in provincial court with breaking and entering and was remanded until next Monday for election of trial method. He was released on $500 bail.

POISON SEEDS

Small children should be warned away from poisonous laburnum seeds that drop from boulevard trees at this time of the year, city police said today.

They have taken a number of youngsters to Royal Jubilee Hospital poison centre to have stomachs emptied and advise parents to tell their children of the danger.

Usual treatment is to give an emetic to induce vomiting.

Diver Inquest Set

A scuba diving enthusiast from Washington state was drowned Sunday while diving with other Americans in Finlayson Arm.

Donald Wayne Waid, a 23-year-old welder from Carnation, Wash., a community near Seattle, was drowned in 100 feet of water off Elbow Point on the east side of the inlet.

RCMP said Waid was visiting Victoria with friends who were diving with him or nearby when the accident occurred about 11 a.m. Sunday.

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre has scheduled an inquest at the Law Courts at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Sunday's drowning was the second involving a scuba diver in Finlayson Arm waters within five months.

A GOOD

CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room etc., for rent, or property for sale: start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your adveertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. for you daily, Monday through Friday; 8:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

Computer Blows Race

Times Staff

So much for technology.

The Swiftsure and Juan de Fuca race committee went completely computerized this year only to find the machine spilled out the wrong winner.

Late Sunday the computer had Outrageous, a 50-foot sloop belonging to Ted Burns of the Bremerton, Wash., Yacht Club taking the Swiftsure Trophy as over-all winner among Internatiomal Offshore Rule boats racing in the 136.2-mile classic.

A recheck today, however, revealed that although Outrageous wins the Ocean Cement Trophy for first boat in division 1, crossing the finish line near the Ogden Point breakwater at 10:05 a.m. Sunday, the big winner is Bill Buchan's Sachem of Seattle's Corinthian Yacht Club.

Buchan, a Swiftsure veteran, crossed the finish line at 2:01 p.m. Sunday. Sachem is one of 18 three-quarter tonners who will be competing in the world championships that begin at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club this week.

The first boat to complete the race to the Swiftsure Bank and back was Fritz Johnson's 73-foot sloop, Windward Passage, of the New York Yacht Club. She completed the race at 8:16 a.m., winning the City of Victoria Trophy for first boat to finish.

The first boat to round the Swiftsure mark was Drifter, a 69-foot sloop out of the Lahaina Yacht Club, raced by Ron Hart and Dick Warren. She rounded at 10:49 p.m. Saturday, followed by Windward Passage six minutes later and by Doug Fryer's 67-foot sloop Merlin of the Seattle Yacht Club at 11:19 p.m.

Late Sunday afternoon brisk westerlies were bringing the remainder of the 373 Swiftsure and Juan de Fuca boats home in style, spinnakers, bloopers and every sail they could raise flying.

Strong gusts caused many a near knockdown as the boats raced through the tidal waters of Race Passage and the gale-force winds took their toll in both races. A host of boats withdrew either because of broken gear, sea sickness or other causes. One of the first boats to be knocked out of the race was Scott Schock's Red Onion, who lost her mast shortly after her start.

Other early casualties were G. Middleton's Shaman of CYC, who broke her rudder, and Tillicum and Tumbo, belonging to H.J. Ricketts of CYC and Larry Straith of the

NATO Eying Red Threat

Times News Services

WASHINGTON — A diplomatic extravaganza opens in Washington this week as Western leaders, including Prime Minister Trudeau, ponder ways to counter growing Warsaw Pact armies — now about twice as strong conventionally as the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Fourteen heads of government — with French President Valery Giscard D'Estaing as usual the only notable absentee — will meet at the U.S. state department for secret sessions.

President Carter will address the opening session of the Tuesday. The delegations then will hold two days of closed-door meetings to plan long-range strategy for dealing with what has been a concerted buildup of Soviet-led Warsaw Pact forces.

Wrapped in this debate is bound to be a discussion of the controversial neutron weapon which some NATO members want and others don't.

Canada has not yet said whether this country opposes producing and deploying the weapon.

However, Trudeau indicated at the special UN session on disarmament last week the aim of nuclear weapons control should be to smother development of deviees such as the neutron bomb in the laboratory.

The meeting will consider 117 major recommendations put together over the last eight months by 10 special committees.

Officials said that one of the most important elements in the report, involves a 15-year program for an integrated allied air defence.

Other aspects of the report cover ways to improve the readiness of NATO forces, to speed the rate at which reinforcements can be deployed, and to enhance maritime capabilities, communications and logistic co-ordination.

In manpower and conventional weaponry in Central Europe, the most critical area, the NATO forces are arrayed against armies whose superiority has been steadily growing.

Among other things, NATO intelligence and U.S. estimates show that:

—More than 580,000 combat-ready troops, about 310,000 from the Soviet Union, are deployed in East Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary, compared with 283,000 for NATO.

—There are 15,500 tanks on the Warsaw Pact side against 6,000 for NATO.

—The Warsaw Pact has 4,000 tactical combat aircraft compared with about 2,000 for NATO.

—In the event of an attack, the Warsaw Pact could deploy 180 divisions as reinforcements. NATO countries could supply 71.

The conversion of the Soviet Union's tactical air force from a largely defensive to a largely offensive ground attack role also has raised con-

AIR CANADA PLAYS FAIRY GODFATHER

FLIN FLON, Man. (TNS) — A Scottish bride's wedding day tears turned to laughter when an Air Canada captain decided to play fairy godfather.

It happened on Saturday when the unidentified pilot noticed Fiona Johnston, 19, still in her wedding dress, sobbing in the observation lounge of Glasgow airport. She was saying goodbye to her husband of a few hours, 23-year-old David, who works in Flin Flon and was due back at work today. Unfortunately, Fiona's immigration paperwork had not been completed.

The pilot delayed the flight while strings were pulled to see if Fiona could be cleared for a flying honeymoon visit to Canada with her new hubby. She could be.

Later, passengers aboard the flight passed the hat and collected $200 in various currencies as a wedding present for Fiona and David.

'Tots Held In Slavery'

LONDON (Reuter) — Small children in Morocco are working up to 72 hours a week for little or no pay to make carpets for export to Canada and other foreign markets, the Anti-Slavery Society said in a report published today.

A mission was sent to Morocco by the London-based human rights organization to investigate reports that girls as young as seven were being used as cheap labor to fuel Morocco's booming exports of carpets to Canada, the United States, West Germany, the Netherlands, Sweden, France, and Belgium.

The mission visited 79 private factories in 17 Moroccan cities and towns.

Its report said conditions in private factories and workshops were generally poor and many of the children looked under-nourished and overworked. By contrast, conditions in the government-owned workshops were much better, it said.

The report said most of the child workers under 12 in the private sector were classed as apprentices and paid little or nothing for long hours of labor. Those who were paid received enough money to buy a loaf of bread evey day.

The organization called on the Moroccan government to extend its control over private factories to bring them up to at least the better standards existing in state factories.

The Anti-Slavery Society, founded in 1839, works for the eradication of slavery, servile forced labor and other violations of human rights. It has consultative status with the UN Economic and Social Council.

35 Flags Ripped In 'Ritual'

Nearly all the flags decorating the B.C. Steamships terminal were ripped down Saturday night in what seems to be a Switftsure ritual.

Thirty-five Canadian ensigns, provincial and Cook bicentennial flags disappeared from brackets holding them.

"It happened Saturday night, the same as last year. Does that tell you anything?" said a disgusted steamship spokesman.

SPORTS

Al Unser was surprised Sunday, but it was a happy and rewarding surprise. Despite scorching heat and challenges from talented rivals, Unser was surprised by the ease in which he became only the fifth driver to win the famed Indianapolis 500 automobile race for a third time.

Seattle SuperSonics say they don't need individual heroes and they went a long way toward proving their theory Sunday. The Sonics turned in an unselfish team effort to nip Washington Bullets in a 93-92 thriller and take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven National Basketball Association final.

Victoria gymnasts Philip Delesalle and Owen Walstrom have been selected to Canada's team for the Commonwelath Games this summer in Edmonton following the national championships at Ottawa, where Delesalle turned in a world-class performance to win his third Canadian senior men's crown. Another Victorian, Tracy Beer, captured the junior women's title.

It's two-for-two for Victoria driver Roy Haslam in his new super-stock racing car. Haslam roared to main-event victories in the first two races of the Drivers' Challenge Series, winning Saturday at Western Speedway and Sunday at Langley.

Political Games Played With Zaire Death Toll

By DAVID B. OTTAWAY
The Washington Post

KINSHASA, Zaire — As the confusion surrounding the rebel seizure of Kolwezi slowly subsides, the picture of what really happened in that now half-empty mining town, who executed whom and how many died is becoming clearer.

It appears that fewer were killed than previous reports indicated.

(All but about 150 of the French troops who parachuted into Shaba province to drive Katangan rebels from Kolwezi and rescue foreigners have left the battle-scarred copper-mining town and turned the area over to the Zaire army).

The initial avalanche of conflicting reports from Europeans fleeing, French and Belgian military sources, and Zairian authorities made accurate reporting extremely difficult.

In retrospect, it seems some of the initial reports from French and Zairian sources of whites being massacred were deliberately exaggerated to gain quick Western public sympathy for the French-Belgian rescue mission of more than 2,000 Europeans in the town.

The first impression was of a systematic killing of whites by the rebels, most of the deaths occurring at three or four mass execution sites.

It now appears most of the killing was random and arbitrary, that the rebels and Zairian army soldiers participated at different times in helping and executing Europeans and that the majority of the victims, white and black, died singly or in small groups.

Fench military sources in Kolwezi say captured rebel documents included no orders to kill Europeans, though it is possible the licence to do so came when it was learned French Legionnaires were on their way to Kolwezi.

As for the total number of Europeans and Zairians who perished during the six-day siege, the hunt for bodies now being conducted by the International Committee of the Red Cross and Belgian and French medical teams so far does not bear out the initial high estimates.

The Red Cross figures for bodies picked up in and around the town between Tuesday and Friday are 56 Zairian troops, 111 black African civilians, and 95 Europeans, making a total of 262 confirmed deaths.

A seven-man Belgian medical team counted only 64 Europeans, of which it was able to identify 23. A French consular officer who visited Kolwezi Thursday gave the figure of 123 confirmed white deaths.

All three figures are significantly below the official French government estimate of 200 put out at midweek.

While the truth remains hazy, there are several clear examples of exaggerated and probably deliberately planted figures given out either by Zairian or French authorities to create the impression the rebels carried out mass executions of Europeans.

The first reports of any such killings came from the Zairian government on May 19, the day French landed on Kolwezi, saying the bodies of

Hisses, Boos By Pensioners

VANCOUVER (CP) — Liberal leader Gordon Gibson and Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm were hissed and booed Sunday by senior citizens at a meeting sponsored by Pensioners For Action.

Adding to the chagrin of the 250 elderly listeners was the absence of NDP leader Dave Barrett. An hour before the start of the meeting he announced he couldn't make it and was replaced by Rosemary Brown, NDP human resources critic.

"I came expecting to hear Dave Barrett — most people did and they're annoyed that he's not here," said one woman.

Equally vying for the audience's attention was a trip for two to Reno and lottery tickets which were raffled off at the end of the meeting.

"To tell you the truth, half these people would never come if we didn't entice them with door prizes," said one organizer.

The meeting was billed as the first in what is expected to be a series of discussions on topics of interest to the elderly and Canadians in general.

Riot Charges

Seven persons were charged in Victoria provincial court today in connection with the April 15 riot at the Jordan River prison camp.

Two, 25-year-old Paul Ruben Cardiff and 20-year-old William Patrick Puglis, were charged with arson, one was charged with possession of a pick-axe, and the rest were charged with mischief causing wilful damage.

Three were remanded by Judge Blake Allan to next Monday, the others to next Tuesday, for election of trial.

DETECTIVE HIT IN BANK BATTLE

WEST VANCOUVER (CP) — A police detective shot in a gunfight with a bank robber said Sunday the shootout began after a customer threw an ashtray at the robber.

Det. Laurence Mortimer, 56, was hit three times in the Saturday gun battle—once on each hand and once through the neck.

Mortimer said he had been showing the bank's assistant manager a picture of a fraud suspect when he saw the robber, who was carrying a long-barrelled .22-calibre pistol.

"I was going to wait until he got out and tackle him outside," said Mortimer.

Then a 65-year-old customer standing at the counter threw the ashtray, said Mortimer, hitting the gunman on the temple.

"He swung around with the gun," Mortimer said. "I thought he was going to blow the guy away."

Then the shooting started.

B.C.: Crime Capital of Canada

VANCOUVER (CP) — Crime in Canada follows an almost unchanging pattern — the farther west one goes, the higher the crime rate, according to a statistical profile of national criminal activity prepared by a Simon Fraser University criminologist.

Dr. Ezzat A. Fattah, 48, chairman of the university's 15-member criminology faculty, says British Columbia has consistently led the nation in every kind of criminal activity, with the exception of robbery, since Statistics Canada began compiling comprehensive crime data in 1962.

"We found this was a very consistent pattern with one exception, the category of robbery, where some years Quebec holds the lead and in other years B.C.," Egyptian-born Fattah said. "Otherwise the trend is consistent."

He compiled rates — based on reported and recorded crimes, rather than court convictions — for every type of crime on a basic unit of 100,000 population in three broad categories: crimes of violence; property offences and miscellaneous crimes such as prostitution, gambling, drug offences, possession of stolen property and weapons; and non-violent sex offences.

Attorney-General Garde Gardom today pointed out Fattah based his figures on three-year-old statistics. He said the crime rate has leveled off in recent years.

The formation of the Co-ordinated Law Enforcement Unit and an over-all increase in the number of police have been important factors in the tapering off, he said.

Gardom is looking to the health ministry's compulsory heroin treatment program to have a significant impact on drug related crimes, estimated to be responsible for 60 per cent of all crime.

The attorney-general continues to press Ottawa for more help controlling the heroin problem. Gardon says B.C. suffers 60 per cent of the heroin problem in Canada but received only a fraction of the federal heroin control aid.

Statistics Canada stopped preparing separate figures for the top 12 metropolitan areas in 1972, but at that time, Fattah says, Vancouver was clearly the most crime-ridden city in the country and he has no reason to believe that situation has changed.

Edmonton and Calgary were ranked second and third in the study, followed by Windsor, Ont. — across the border from Detroit, Mich., which leads the United States in murders.

Among his other findings:

—the national crime rate has gone up 152 per cent in the 14-year period. Crimes of violence have increased 194.7 per cent and property offences have gone up 140.8 per cent.

—violent crimes constitute only eight per cent of Canada's criminal activity. Sixty-seven per cent are property offences and the remainder are victimless crimes like prostitution and drug possession.

—drug crimes have rocketed from 770 offences in 1962 to 50,081 in 1975. In B.C., the number shot from 188 in 1962 to 9,790 in 1975.

—the incidence rate of violent crime nationally was 554.3 per 100,000 in 1975, but in B.C., the rate was 804.3. Comparable rates for property crimes were 4,494.7 and 6,725.2 respectively.

—the national murder rate in 1975 was 3.1 per 100,000 compared with 3.8 in B.C. The murder rate increased 121 per cent nationally in the 14-year period.

Revenues, however, at $37,343,000 for the quarter, were 26 per cent higher. Wardair attributes the increase to higher sales of tour charters.

Expenses were also higher, resulting from higher operating volumes, inflation, the lower value of the Canadian dollar and costs of fleet acquisition.

LUXURY BUS should keep any executive and his crew happy . . . and that's why it was built by Paul Keeshin, of Chicago, sitting in an armchair of the 'Executive Coach.' The conversion cost $250,000, and the bus is usually chartered by corporations which like the luxury and convenience of getting people together as soon as they get off the plane. It's also rented by groups for comfortable highway trips.
